ACTRESS BACK HOME; ABSENCE UNEXPLAINED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Refusing to explain her whereabouts since her strange disappearance Sunday night, Evelyn Wilson, 23, an actress, returned to her home early today.

When detectives finally were able to interview the stage beauty, after being denied admittance for hours, they were unable to obtain any information from her, due to her physical condition. She is under the care of a physician.

Miss Wilson vanished after leaving the apartment of her sister during a party Sunday evening.

The actress' mother insisted that she had been kidnaped by racketeers for ransom or by white slavers.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Shovels and picks did double duty last night as long as the corps of Epworth M. E. men and boys were on the job grading the property about their handsome stone church. Strangers passing by stopped to watch them as they toiled to place things in readiness for the scheduled dedication on Sunday.

At midnight, or later, a crowd invaded the downtown section, and Pa Newc wondered for a moment. It proved to be the returning throng that watched the circus pull stakes after the show here last night.

Modern progress has eliminated another of the time tried attirbutes of the circus, it was discovered last night. The loud voice announcer, who presented the acts with great gusto and flourish, has been replaced with an amplifying system, which gives the announcements without the announcer being seen.

We are still inclined to the belief that there are a lot of weeds on city streets that need to be cut.

Perhaps it is just as well that the owner of that certain little automobile in the after-circus congestion on Mahoning avenue did not hear what the big policeman called the car. The policeman who was directing traffic remarked to Pa Newc with a wry smile: "I am going to try to get that smoky thing out of here." The little car certainly was giving out smoke. In fact, it was quite "exhausted".

Yes, sir. Children are problems. And a great worry. For instance, there was that little girl at the circus last night who kept tugging at daddy's sleeve and insisting that she should have that baby zebra to take home and play with. Daddy tried to explain that the mama zebra would cry if they took her little striped baby.

Chickens seem to be getting lots of automobile rides these days. And the farmers have found that the rumble seat is just the thing to use in the transportation. Pa Newc saw quite a lot of chickens in rum-

Ninety Second Birthday Observed By Rockefeller With Regular Routine

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

POCANTICO HILLS, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller, the grandfather of American big business, will have his cake today—and eat it, too.

He was ninety-two years old and it was happy birthday for the oil pioneer. He was in perfect health. His children and grandchildren were gathered around him. He had a plentiful supply of shining bright new dimes to distribute.

There was only one cloud looming on his horizon. An overcast sky threatened his daily round of golf. He has hardly missed his nine holes on the golf links on his birthday—or any other day—since before the era of gasoline stations.

Rockefeller was up before 7 a. m. today—as usual. He took a brisk walk in his Japanese gardens—as usual. Then he went through the servant quarters of his 8,000 acre estate here and distributed those dimes. Each presentation was accompanied by a brief friendly word.

Many Messages.

There was a library of messages from all parts of the world wishing

Hold 32 For Hearing In Alleged Plotting Of Greene Co. Armed March

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 8.—Awaiting a hearing in connection with an alleged plot in which striking miners in Greene county were reported to have planned an armed march, thirty-two suspects were held at the county jail today after a widespread roundup by State police and deputy sheriffs. Twenty-seven men and five women comprise the group held.

The strikers and strike sympathizers arrested were reported to have participated in a demonstration last week at Walnut Hill where the forces of Sheriff James White and State police were stationed to restore order. The reputed plot, according to Sheriff White, was to culminate in an attempt to attack the sheriff. It was planned for later on this week and was to have been staged in the eastern part of Greene county, the reports stated.

Roundup of the suspects was made in wholesale fashion and busses were used to transport the prisoners from the outlying communities to the county jail here. It was the largest

Wife Is Worried Over Flight Of Robbins To Tokio

Five Year Old Son Is Enthused However—Robbins Holds Endurance Record

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 8.—The wife and five-year-old son of Reg Robbins received the news of Robbin's take-off to Tokio with diverse emotions today.

Mrs. Robbins was plainly worried while Junior, who christened his father's ship before it left Fort Worth, was as excited, almost, as if he were taking part in the flight.

"I have lots of confidence in Reg", Mrs. Robbins said, "but it is a dangerous flight. Naturally, I'm worried."

Robbins gained his first public recognition about three years ago when, in a second hand plane, he broke the endurance flight record established a few months earlier by the army airplane "Question Mark." The money he made out of that flight he used to buy a tri-motored ship with which he has made a living "barnstorming" about the southwest ever since.

H. S. Jones, Robbins' navigator on the trans-Pacific flight started today, first met Robbins when he employed the flyer to pilot him about the state on several business trips.

Jones, a bachelor, is head of a small oil company and is considered wealthy. He and several of his friends financed the flight to Tokio and Jones is taking part in it for the "thrill" of the thing.

Plane Crashes At Yorkville, O.

Charles Sugg, Flier, May Have Been Fatally Hurt In Crash

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio, July 8.—An airplane crashed into a hillside near the Yorkville airport here today, resulting in possibly fatal injuries to Charles Sugg, a flyer in the Ford National reliability air tour.

The plane smashed into the hill as it was taking off with other planes in the fleet, toward Columbus, which was to be the next stop in the tour.

Sugg was rushed to a local hospital where physicians said he probably has suffered a fractured skull. Sugg joined the tour when it left Detroit and his address could not be learned.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 8.—Now I can't be so truthful about these congressmen in Washington, for yesterday the head one of all of 'em drove out with Congressman Crail to my igloo to see me, Tilson, the Republican leader, (who will perhaps be the next speaker).

We talked over old times when we used to meet and tell jokes in Longworth's room. He was called in to consult on Mr. Hoover's debt plan. It was well thought out and no politics involved. As he fed quite a few Democrats during the huddle, Tilson says, "We are over the worst."

Let's hope he is right. Even a congressman can be right occasionally.

Texas Ranger And Former Jailer Die In Duel On Street

TOWN IN TEXAS IS THROWN IN TURMOIL

(International News Service)

GLADEWATER, Texas, July 8.—A Texas ranger and a former jailer were dead here today, the victims of a gun duel which threw the business district of this little oil town into a turmoil last night.

Dan McDuffey, the ranger, was killed when Jeff Johnson fired into an automobile loaded with police officers who were searching for him. Johnson was slain when Chief of Police W. A. Dial returned the fire.

Johnson recently was discharged as jailer and, according to Chief Dial, had made threats to kill those responsible for his discharge. As a consequence of the threats, Dial, Mc-

Scaling Down On Allied War Debts May Be Proposed

Believe Hoover Intends To Move For European Armament Reduction

CONFERENCE IS SET FOR FEBRUARY

Attitude Of Congress On Any War Debt Changes Is Big Problem

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The scaling down on the allied war debts to the United States, in exchange for the Allies forgiving a commensurate amount of German reparations and consenting to radically reduce their armament, both land and sea, is now regarded in Washington as the next step in President Hoover's program for world rehabilitation.

No one speaking for the administration will say publicly, but privately it is on the tongue of every one intimately associated with Mr. Hoover and every diplomat in the capital.

Stimson In Europe

The furtherance of this project is understood to be one of the main purposes of Secretary of State Stimson in taking a "Holiday" of several months in Europe. Tomorrow in Rome, Stimson will sound out Premier Mussolini, whose private naval fued with the French prevented a five-power naval accord at London, eighteen months ago. And from Rome, Stimson will go leisurely to Berlin, Paris, London, and perhaps Brussels.

The revelation made by acting Secretary of State Wm. R. Castle, Jr., that President Hoover had in mind "Re-examining" the whole structure of war debts and reparations two months ago fairly startled

Former Resident Returns For Visit After Long Absence

Louis Kaufman Visits New Castle For First Time In Half Century

After an absence of a half century 49, years to be exact, Louis Kaufman, of New Orleans, brother of Jonas Kaufman of Boyles avenue, returned yesterday for a short visit to his old home town, and naturally found conditions greatly changed.

Mr. Kaufman was accompanied by his son, Louis Albert, aged eleven, the two being enroute to New York City for a visit with other relatives before returning to New Orleans.

While a resident of New Castle, Mr. Kaufman was in business with his brother Jonas, their store being located for a time, where Perelman's is now, and later on they moved directly across the street, alongside of Stritmater's old store, now occupied by Higgin's Brothers.

Mr. Kaufman is engaged in the manufacture of cigar boxes in New Orleans, where he has a prosperous industrial plant.

Although the town has changed considerably since he left here a half century ago, he was able to pick out a number of old landmarks, and readily recognized the old store location and several other buildings which have been standing along Washington street, since he left.

Sixty Injured In Street Car Mishaps

Two Accidents In Brooklyn—Split Switch And Slippery Rails Cause

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 8.—More than 60 persons were suffering from shock and slight bruises today and five persons were seriously injured as a result of two street car accidents in Brooklyn.

Three persons were seriously injured and ten others slightly hurt last night when two street cars crashed head-on. A split switch caused the accident.

Brakes that would not hold on slippery tracks were blamed for an accident Tuesday afternoon, when a street car jumped the rails and crashed into a drug store in a three-story building. Two persons were seriously injured and more than 50 suffered shock and minor bruises. The forward part of the car penetrated the drug store, wrecking two counters and three telephone booths.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Mrs. Wiley Post and Mrs. Harold Gatty were "just wives" a short time ago—whose interests centered about their work-a-day husbands—seeing that their socks were darned, their steaks well cooked and their digestions good. Today these same simple, home-loving pretty women are queens—with the worshipping world at their feet!

They are sharing the thrones all nations awarded their hero husbands—because these easy-going, mild-eyed men dared to fly around the globe. They dared and they circled those 15,128 miles in 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes—a new world's record!

Philadelphia Man Declares He Felt Like He Was In Peaceful Sleep

RESUSCITATORS WORK NINE HOURS

Man Rendered Unconscious In Fall From Boat—Apparently Dead

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 8—Death is only a "peaceful, dreamless sleep . . . . a placid oblivion devoid of disturbance."

This belief was voiced today by William Dugan, 28. It was substantiated by a "first-hand" experience. Dugan insists he knows.

For he was "dead" for nine hours. Dugan fell from a canoe into the waters of Laurel Lake, N. J. His head hit the side of the craft and he plunged to the bottom. Five minutes later his apparently lifeless form was dragged to the surface.

His body was blue and chilled. The heart had ceased beating and the pulse was stilled. There was no sign of life. Physicians and nurses began resucitation efforts as a forlorn hope. Blankets lined with hot water bottles, inhalators and hypodermic injections were brought into play.

Rescuers Work 9 Hours.

For nine hours the rescuers worked. Then Dugan fluttered his eyelights—and breathed, brokenly at first and then normally.

He described his sensations today. "I was comfortable—just resting peacefully in space," he said. "There

ROBBINS AND JONES START ON NON-STOP FLIGHT TO JAPAN

Leave Seattle For Alaska Where Plane Will Be Refueled In Air

Expect To Reach Tokyo, Japan Sometime Tomorrow Afternoon

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., July 8—Hoping to be the first to span the Pacific in a non-stop westward flight to Japan, Reginald L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas fliers, took off from the Seattle airport in their trim monoplane the "Fort Worth," at 3:58 a. m. today (Pacific Coast Time.)

More than 5,000 people gathered at the airport to cheer the daring aviators on their way.

With perfect weather condition reported all the way across the ocean, the fliers turned the nose of their ship northward, heading for Seward, Alaska.

Refuel At Fairbanks

Their course lies across western British Columbia to Seward, then eastward to Fairbanks, where they will be refueled, thence northward to Nome where they will again take on fuel in the air, and then west and south to Tokyo.

Weather reports from government observers indicated that perfect flying conditions prevailed across the Pacific.

Representatives of the Asahi News told the fliers just before they

Epworth Men To Complete Task This Evening

Will Fill In Hole Along Washington Street Side Of Church In Grading Project

TWO SITTINGS FOR DINNER ON FRIDAY

By nightfall, the grounds about the new Epworth M. E. church will have taken on somewhat the appearance that is expected to be eventually achieved in the landscaping plan for the church, when the men of the congreation will finish the grading work in preparation for the opening of the big new edifice to the public during Dedication Week.

Last evening, close to a hundred men, armed with picks and shovels, mobilized again at the grading task, and completed most of the work with the exception of filling in the hole along the Washington street side.

A digger has been secured and the trucks of Mooney Brothers have been contributed for the work of hauling the dirt to fill in the hole, which will be taken from the grounds of Senator George T. Weingartner today. This evening, the men will meet again to level off the earth and fill in the grounds about the church.

Last evening, the ladies of the Epworth Bible Class served cooling lemonade, while Dr. T. M. Shaffer contributed five gallons of buttermilk to stimulate the workers.

The women of the church met yesterday and completed the task of cleaning the interior of the big building, and by tomorrow, everything will be in readiness for the dedication of the building, with the opening service Thursday.

The sale of tickets for the fellowship dinner on Friday evening has been so heavy, that two sittings will be necessary, the pastor, Samuel L. Maxwell, stated this morning. Already six hundred tickets have been distributed. The first table will be served promptly at 5:30 while the second will be served at 6:30.

Say Farewell To Father Nee

Tribute Is Paid To Departing Assistant Pastor Of St. Mary's Church

CHECK FOR $500 IS PARTING GIFT

REV. FR. J. DUDLEY NEE

Most fitting was the tribute paid to Rev. Fr. J. Dudley Nee, one of the assistant pastors of St. Mary's Parish since May 11, 1927, on Tuesday evening in St. Mary's Hall, North Beaver street, by numerous members of the congregation and friends, who filled the place.

Arranged as a farewell reception, it proved a most enjoyable occasion for both the honor guest, Father Nee, and those who participated in any way and Father Nee in completing his services here today, leaves with the knowledge that his efforts were apreciated and that he will be greatly missed not only in the parish but the city in general.

Presented With $500

Featuring the varied program of speaking and music, was the presentation at the close of the program by Rev. Fr. F. S. Clifford, his associate assistant pastor of St. Mary's Parish of a check amounting to approximately $500 as a token of esteem and appreciation of his efforts while here, on the part of the members of the parish.

Major Guy J. Wadlinger presided as chairman of the evening. He performed the functions of this duty with dignity and pleasing effect.

In the course of his opening remarks, Major Wadlinger said: "For a little more than four years, Father Nee, you have been with us as a priest, our confessor and our counsellor. You have been with us in our trials and our joys and we have come to know and love you. You have done well and this gathering indicates in some small degree, the feeling of the members of the parish and the community for you and the work you have done here. In leaving, you take with you our best

Community Services Planned At Epworth

Two Services Are Planned For Members Of Other Congregations During Week

Religious Drama Will Feature Community Night Service Tuesday, July 14

During Dedication Week, which begins Thursday night, July 9, the Epworth M. E. congregation has planned two services particularly for the members of other congregations and denominations.

These will take the form of a Community Service on Sunday afternoon, July 12, at 3 o'clock, while the other will be "Community Night," on Tuesday, July 14.

At the Sunday afternoon service, the Reverend D. C. Schnebly, president of the New Castle Ministerial Association will bring a word of greeting from the churches of the city, while Dr. C. G. Farr, district superintendent, will speak for New Castle Methodism.

Dr. Charles T. Greer, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Warren, Pa., will deliver the message of the afternoon. Dr. Greer was born in New Castle and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Greer, members of the Epworth congregation.

To Present Play

On Tuesday evening, July 14, the main feature of the service will be the presentation of the play, "He Came Seeing," produced by special arrangement with the Samuel T. French Company, under the direction of Howard Wylie. This play is the one which was so impressively produced by the Epworth players during the Religious Drama Tournament.

While the church people of New Castle will be more than welcome at all the services during Dedication Week, they are particularly invited to attend these two services. The church will be open for leisurely inspection Saturday afternoon and evening of this week from 3 to 9 o'clock, when the public will have an opportunity to go through the church and all its departments, ample time being provided for those who wish to go through the church from top to bottom.

Immediately after his plunge from the boat he fell to the bottom thru a series of "brilliant lights" that dazzled his eyes, Dugan said. From then on, he "floated peacefully in the air until I heard my mother calling."

"And then," he concluded, "I snapped out of it."

WORLD FLIERS' WIVES SHARE IN ALL HONORS; HEAPED ON HUSBAND

at a regal hotel—where monarchs have lived and entertained—these queens have accepted tributes graciously, with smiling, proud eyes.

When Wiley Post and Harold Gatty were unsung by the hero-worshipping world, these two little women were proud and smiling—because of their men! Wiley and Harold were heroes to them, even then. It's no surprise to these wives that the world now proclaims them so.

"Wiley and I could not have been happier—had we been millionaires," Mrs. Post said, her large brown eyes glowing. "We have been married four years," she recalled, sitting in a carved rose damask cushioned chair, with her knees crossed and dark bobbed curls carelessly blown by an East river breeze. Her eyes were those of a happy, believing woman. Her manner that of a girl—she's only 21—who has retained the thrill of her first love affair.

A "Comfy" Place

"You see, we have a little apartment in Oklahoma City . . . it's a comfy place—with lots of books, soft lights and cushions." Her lovely hands fluttered as she enthused. "And I do all the cooking—I love to cook for Wiley—he always likes the things I fix.

"Swiss steak and chocolate cake are his favorites," she said, and added: "Rye bread."

"Fuel" For a Flyer

A dish that fuels a world flyer (Wiley Post):—

Swiss Steak—
Portion for two people—
One pound top round steak
One medium can tomatoes
Two large onions
One green pepper
Half pound chopped mushrooms
Chop onions, pepper, tomato; season to taste. Cook slowly in deep baking pan with steak two hours.

Then thoughtfully—"And Wiley's success will not change him—or us. We'll still go on living simply.

"Yes—I was worried while he was on the flight—but, I knew somehow he would make it," she smiled, looking over at her husband who had stacks of flowers and telegrams on every side.

When she talked about the probability of another flight, her face became a little anxious. "I hope Wiley doesn't do anything like that again," she said. Then, as if she interpreted the thrill her husband experienced, she added: "I suppose, though, if he says he wants to make another flight, I'll say 'all right'."

Mrs. Harold Gattey has giving three children to her husband during their eight years of marriage.

Knew They'd Succeed

"I felt the men would make it," Mrs. Gattey said. "I just tried to keep doing things around the house while they were flying. The children sensed there was something going on. Every time the youngest—he's two and pink and chubby—heard a plane, he'd think it was his daddy."

Asked what she expected her children to be, she said: "They'll all be aviators. They want to be . . . most of their toys are little planes. So, you see, some day I'll have four aviators," she rested her sunny eyes on her husband.

Laurels these women's men have won will not clutter up their homes, or lives, or change the even, steady course of their love. But these wives share their husbands' thrills, and adore them for their risks.

They love them for their bravery. The courage of these women gives confidence to their men. Behind great men are great women.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty talk of the skies . . . their wives or swiss steak and babies. What more perfect combinations could one want?

Among antiques that may in time have some sentimental value are those half-million dollar stock exchange seats.—The Shreveport Journal.

him many years of birthdays. He listened with brightened eyes to his secretary read them. A reading of the newspaper followed.

There were birthday presents awaiting him as Rockefeller went in to breakfast. The list was not made public but on the very highest authority it was learned the gifts included a set of golf clubs as shining new as his own dimes.

Surrounded by his family, Rockefeller was in jovial mood at breakfast. His meal was the same careful diet of any other day. They said he celebrated the occasion by an additional glass of milk.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

And tonight he will deviate slightly from the dietary path to taste some of his own birthday cake.

A reading from the scriptures followed breakfast.

Then came the yearly festivity of everybody playing Numerica—Rockefeller's favorite pastime. It is a card game which might be described as competitive solitaire. Rockefeller won—not because they let him—but because he is an expert.

Members of his family present included Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., their daughter Abby, her husband, David Milton, three-year-old Abby Milton, and five grandsons of Rockefeller, John D. 3rd., Laurence S. Winthrop, David and Nelson A. Rockefeller, and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

An automobile drive around the estate and his regular noon day nap were on the schedule.

It was almost like any other day in the life of Rockefeller—except that his smile was broader through the day.

As the panic stricken pedestrians scurried away, he leveled his heavy rifle and began firing at the automobile. His first bullet struck McDuffey, who slumped to the floor of the car, fatally hurt.

climbed into their trim monoplane, "Fort Worth," that ideal weather had been reported from Japan.

The fliers expect to reach Fairbanks, Alaska, about noon and there they will be refueled in the air by a tri-motored plane, piloted by James Mattern and Nick Greener.

From Fairbanks they will fly to Nome, meeting another refueling plane and taking on their last supply of gas before they strike out over the icy wastes of the Bering Sea for Siberia and Tokyo.

They expect to reach their destination about 4 or 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, July 9.

Just before they climbed into their ship for the takeoff, Robbins and Jones passed miniature cowbells to their friends and attendants at the airport.

Next Meal In Tokyo

"Good-bye," they shouted, as Robbins gave the motor the gun.

"We're going to eat our next meal in Tokyo."

With a roar the trim Lock-Heed dashed down the runway and took off at an abrupt angle, into the dark northern skies.

For a short time its course could be traced by the blue flames from its exhaust, then it faded from sight of the observers, the hum of the motor dying slowly into the distance.

If successful in their 4800-mile journey, the intrepid fliers will receive the $25,000 prize offered by a Tokyo newspaper for the first non-stop flight across the Pacific to Japan.

Their take-off was delayed by a wait until their refueling plane reached Fairbanks.

The giant tri-motored ship was forced down several times on its hop from Edmonton, Canada, finally arriving at Fairbanks late yesterday. More than 1000 automobiles lined the field as word went around that the fliers were planning to start their flight.

Delegates to the National Elks convention here, particularly the delegates from Texas, rushed to the airport to bid them "bon voyage" and "God speed."

A lusty cheer swelled from the throats of the throng as the plane roared down the runway.

Refuelers Await Fliers

(International News Service)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 8—After working all night James Mattern and Nick Greener, pilots of the tri-motor plane which will refuel the "Fort Worth" trans-Pacific monoplane of Reg. L. Robbins and H. S. Jones, were awaiting the arrival of the fliers who took off from Seattle at 3:58 this morning.

Mattern and Green arrived here late yesterday after being forced down several times on their flight from Edmonton, Canada.

"Flying conditions were fine," Greener declared in speaking of the trip from Anyox, B. C. "but then the fog closed in on us and we had to change our course several times.

"We took off from a lava bed on the Nash river and took the tops of two trees with us when we did.

"After we got to Whitehorse everything was fine and we knew where we were, so you can bet it didn't take us long to get here."

The huge ship will take to the air with a full load of gasoline, Mattern at the controls, as soon as the Forth Worth is sighted and will refuel the Texas flier's ship to its capacity of 419 gallons.

They were busy with last minute preparations for the refueling and handling of food for the two daring aviators who are trying for the $25,000 prize offered by a Tokyo newspaper for the first non-stop flight across the Pacific Westward to Japan.

SCALING DOWN ON ALLIED WAR DEBTS MAY BE PROPOSED

that element in congress today which has always opposed cancellation of the war debts.

"Re-examination" cannot possibly involve revision upward. It can only mean revision downward.

See Future Plan

Mr. Hoover ultimately abandoned the thought at the time and turned to his war debt suspension plan instead. Buut that he had been toying with the idea, and favorably so, was deemed extremely significant and perhaps prophetic of what is to come later.

Very few officials or economists in Washington believe that mere suspension or war debts and reparations payments for one year will accomplish much of a permanent nature in stabilizing world economic conditions. It is a welcomed breathing spell, and is so regarded.

The next disarmament conference is scheduled for Geneva in February. Thus there remain six months to prepare the ground. The United States will be in a very advantageous position at that time. The American delegation will be in a position to bluntly tell European nations that unless they consent to trimming their armament expenditures the United States will have to withdraw from the field of economic aid which President Hoover has now embarked upon, and perhaps refuse to extend the war debt moratorium another year.

Bluntly put, administration officials see the United States in a position of "Sand-bagging" Europe to reduce armament and to cease waging financial and economic warfare through the medium of existing treaties and agreements.

The big question mark in the Hoover program, however, is how the congress is going to view it. Congress has always been fairly unanimous on the question of war debts. Probably not half a dozen votes could be secured in either house for outright cancellation, and any plan that contemplates revision downward of the existing agreements would meet certain and formidable opposition.

ble seats last evening. (Feathered variety).

It was a real truckful of Lawrence county-grown turnips that Dorris L. Fulkman of Pulaski township delivered to the Pittsburgh district yesterday. Mr. Fulkman says already that over 1,000 baskets of them have been distributed to the dinner tables in that section.

Attention of Pa Newc was attracted this morning to a car bearing a Pennsylvania license No. 15. The number indicated that it must be some member of the governor's official family and investigation resulted in determining that it had been issued to Peter G. Cameron, 216 Vineyard road, Harrisburg, Pa., who will be remembered as former state commissioner of banking. The driver of the machine was seeking information as to the best way to get to Route 18.

Tomorrow at Higgins—

Many economists feel that we have passed the bottom of this depression. During the last two weeks of June the price of raw silk advanced from $2.26 to $2.65 per lb.; wool from 19½c to 21c per lb.; cotton from $8.90 to $10.05. These are typical of the increase in other raw material prices from food stuffs to metals. We are business men, not prophets, but we can say that nothing is to be gained by waiting to buy merchandise that you want and need.

REVISING THE POPULATION FIGURES

WE ARE told on the authority of the Census Bureau that the population of the United States on the first of July was 124,069,651. In other words, the slowing up of the birth and immigration rates and an increase in the death and emigration rates have made it necessary to revise the former computation of population growth in this country. There is no occasion for alarm in this; but we are told to accustom ourselves to the fact that we now add one to the population every thirty-six seconds, instead of every twenty-three seconds as heretofore. Even while this sentence is being written we have added from two to three persons to the population of the nation either by birth or immigration.

To those who delight in statistics it may be interesting to know that there is now a birth in every fourteen seconds instead of every thirteen, a death in every twenty-two seconds instead of every twenty-three, an immigrant arrival in every twelve minutes instead of every minute and a half and an emigrant departure every seven minutes instead of every five and a half minutes. The result of all this gives the net increase of one in every thirty-six seconds instead of one in every twenty-three seconds.

For the sake of those who find these calculations a bit confusing it may be said that for the last year at least the population of the United States is not increasing as rapidly as was anticipated by the statisticians. It is a case of relativity because, in spite of all the factors enumerated, it continues to increase.

AIR MAIL EXPANSION

Air mail service continues to expand. This month will see 16 additional lines established, all but two or three of which are new routes. The others are extensions of present transcontinental service. It is expected that the air mail service soon will be handling 1,000,000 pounds a month.

Along with this development goes increased passenger service. W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, reports that the Post Office Department is equally interested in both lines of service. He adds the interesting fact that the West makes more use of available passenger air lines than does the East. Perhaps this is because there are greater distances to be covered in the West than the more populous industrial East.

As a nation we aren't absolutely air-minded, yet, but we're getting there.

ANGER—AND THEORIES

Why are so-called rational human beings so easily angered? A scientist is working on the theory that every fit of anger and every bad disposition can be traced back to some illness. He is convinced that people who have disease histories are more quick to anger than those who have never been sick.

Now that he has called it to the public attention it will be observed by many that there is a certain resemblance between the sick and the irascible. For one thing, both anger and fever make one red in the face. And then, are not the ill always irritable, splenetic and petulant?

If this theory holds true, it would appear that the past has witnessed an appalling amount of sickness. Many times during the course of the day the average person "loses his temper" or sees others lose control of themselves. A toe is stepped on, a train or street car is late, the car won't start, the dinner burns, a cake "falls;" and then, somebody's tongue slips, there are hasty words, and a few minutes later regret and a resolve to practice self-restraint.

This anger-after-illness theory may be productive of some good, and it may be dangerous. True, society would be more tolerant of the ungovernable temper if convinced it came invariably from sickness, but it might have the undesirable effect of discouraging honest attempts at self mastery.

However, it is not safe at this stage of the investigation to presume too far on one's privilege of getting "mad" because of illness. There is a certain hazard in resenting too strongly and overtly a fancied wrong or an unintentional tramp on the toe, even though that which appears to be the provocation for the resentment is not the real cause.

ODE TO FORTY BELOW

It is bitter cold. All day it has been snowing. It is still snowing. An unbelievably stiff gale is blowing straight out of the north. Into the teeth of the wind a solitary traveler is making his tortuous way. Everybody else is in the house trying to keep warm. The fuel has become exhausted. Not a stick or lump or cubic foot of fuel left. The children are huddled about the cheerless stove. They are cold.

The distraught mother sighs that she wishes to goodness the weather would open up. The window panes rattle wierdly in the grip of the wind which by this time has risen to an initial velocity of 94.1 miles per hour, or the highest since the local weather bureau was established in 1874. The man peers out the window, into the darkness, and turns to his wife with the remark that it looks bad for the live stock. His wife replies that it certainly does. Will morning never come?

But where is the solitary traveler? They don't know. All they know is that wherever he is he isn't suffering from heat prostration. He isn't sweltering along trying to do his routine duties and keep cheerful and kind and generous in a temperature of 100 or 105 or 111 in the shade. He isn't leaping into a bathtub of cold water every 20 minutes for relief, knowing good and well that before he can dry himself he will be sweating again from the mere motion of mild rubbing. He doesn't hesitate to lie down on his couch at night for fear the sheets will scorch him. He may be half frozen, frost bitten, stiff from exposure, but he is comparatively comfortable. He is to be envied and he hereby is. You don't get your fingers caught in electric fans in the winter time. Your clothes don't stick to you in the winter. There are no flies in winter.

The Love Of A Mother
A "Tough" Soldier I Knew
A Strange Old Englishman

By MARSHALL MASLIN

This I read in the book of a strange old Englishman named Doughty, who wandered all through the lands of the Arabs, long before any other white man had ever been among them. . . . And once, sitting in a tent with the important men of a tribe, a little thing happened and he set it down in his book, which he called "Arabia Deserta."

"As we sat," wrote he, "one came in who but then returned from an absence; as the custom is he would first declare his tidings in the majlis, and afterward go home to his own household. He sat down on his knee, but was so poor a man there was none in the sheykhly company that rose to kiss him: with a solemn look he stayed him a moment on his camel-stick, and then pointing gravely with it to every man, one after another, he saluted him with an hollow voice, by his name, saying, 'The Lord strengthen thee.'

"A poor old Beduin wife, when she heard that her son was come again, had followed him over the hot sand hither; now she stood to await him, faintly leaning upon a stake of the beyt a little without, since it is not for any woman to enter where the men's mejlis is sitting. His tidings told, he stepped abroad to greet his mother, who ran and cast her weak arms about his manly neck, trembling for age and tenderness, to see him alive again and sound; and kissing him she could not speak, but uttered little cries. Some of the coffee drinkers laughed roughly, and mocked her driveling, but Motlog said, 'Wherefore laugh? is not this the love of a mother?'"

It was indeed the love of a mother. . . . It was indeed, and once, so many years ago it seems to me now, I saw a similar scene. . . . I was in a little sleepy town of central France loafing in an interval of war, and I went to the station to see the comical train come in. And when it groaned to a stop a sturdy French soldier descended, loaded all over with bags and trappings . . . and a thin old French mother, in black, rushed to him and quavered her love; and her old chin trembled and her eyes were wet and she could not keep her work-hardened hands from touching his bearded face. . . . Her boy was back, for a little while at least, from the front, and for ten days or so she could stand between him and Death. It was the love of a mother.

Curiously, I knew that soldier. Out of all the millions who wore blue uniforms, I knew him. He belonged to the division I lived with. And there was never a more swaggering, tougher soldier than he. . . . A sturdy drinker, a loud talker, a bold-eyed lad. Something of a loafer, something of a thief, a good deal of a braggart and a liar, but a brave and resourceful soldier, for all of that—with medal ribbons on his chest to prove his valor. . . . And not one, either, to speak of his mother or of any gentle thing or to write letters to her while he was away.

But here in this little town, which was his countryside, I surprised him kissing his mother and patting her gently and being a good son. . . . He did not see me and I did not speak to him, but I saw him through different eyes when I met him again at the front. . . . Because of that Love of a Mother.

OUR OWN VAUDEVILLE

Father: How are you coming along with your wild oats?

Son: Oh, sow, sow.

It always irritates and disgusts me when a man who is in the wrong discovers that I don't agree with him and whines: "I thought you were a friend of mine." What has friendship to do with opinions of right and wrong? He doesn't mean to be insulting, but he says in effect: "I thought your friendship for me made you such an idiot that you would think my side right no matter how wrong it might be." I am your friend, but I am not the friend of wrong. I will sympathize when you are in trouble and help you if I can without helping wrong, but I won't think you are right if you aren't right. I don't want the friendship of the man who expects me to side with him whether right or wrong. That kind of friendship costs too much. It is the friendship of a selfish, ignorant, stupid and egoistic man, who values friends only when he can use them. He doesn't really want friends. What he wants is a collection of yes-men, who will always praise him and think him a wonder no matter what he does. I will be your friend in good times and bad, whether you are up or down. But I reserve the right to form my own opinions. When you are right I will support you, but when you are wrong I shall take the other side.

A hog calling contest was one of the things that helped make a Fourth of July celebration at Waynesburg last Saturday. Most of the automobile wrecks in this section are caused by foolish drivers trying to pass other cars and inaccurately gauging the speed of cars that are approaching. When you attempt to pass another car while meeting a third one, your margin of safety is a matter of seconds unless the approaching car is half a mile away. Most of the experienced road drivers hold a speed of about 40 miles an hour. When you attempt to pass one, you must speed up to 60—that is, you must travel the distance of a car-length in about one-fifth of a second. If you are three car-lengths behind the car you would pass, you must make that up, travel the length of the other car, and then travel two car-lengths ahead of it to straighten out in the road. That would be the minimum. And while you are traveling those six car-lengths the other car moves forward four times its length, thus adding about 60 feet to the distance you must cover. The least you can hope for is 150 feet, and you require two seconds to cover it. Meanwhile, the car you are meeting, if it is doing 60 miles an hour, is helping you close the gap at the rate of 176 feet a second. That allows you very little time to be on the wrong side of the road where you have no legal rights. You may be saved many times by the other drivers' mercy, but some day they will be stubborn and hold their pace, and then you will awake among the blessed simple.

Evils Of Gambling Linked With Lottery Prosecution

Press Approves Plans For Enforcement Of Anti-Lottery Laws, Pointing To Small Chance Of Gain To Buyer And Enormous Profits Of Promoters Of These Enterprises

Comment on the announcement that federal laws now existing will be enforced to stop foreign lotteries active in this country is devoted chiefly to the evils of gambling and the voicing of approval of the measures taken to stop it. The universal appeal of gambling is recognized, however, and the suggestion is made that the government could be of more service in seeing that lotteries were honestly conducted than in prohibiting them. The difficulties in enforcing anti-lottery legislation is also pointed out.

"Enactment of the federal anti-lottery statutes, which forbid the use of the mails for circulating lottery advertisements, was brought about by the old Louisiana lottery by which the state profited considerably," the YOUNGSTOWN DAILY VINDICATOR explains, and expresses the belief that "when those who patronize lotteries, which are pretty largely carried on in Canada, Mexico and Ireland, and are flagrantly violating the laws of this country, find that they are equally responsible for violations and face payment of heavy fines and imprisonment, less interest is likely to be shown in drawings and distributions."

The LOWELL EVENING LEADER finds on the statute books ample authority for dealing with the situation, and says: "For example, the foreign lotteries involve an extensive use of the mails at various stages in the process. And in the more strict enforcement of the laws against the abuse of the postal privileges the government will have a strong weapon against the promoters and their agents in this country." The Leader recognizes, however, "one handicap which it will face, the difficulty of rallying public support for any measures that it may take. By and large the people are disposed to look leniently on such enterprises. There is something of the gambling spirit in all of us."

The JACKSON CITIZEN PATRIOT declares that gambling "leads to offenses of all kinds," pointing out particularly that "the tremendous profits in the operation of gambling enterprises encourage the operators to make the most tempting offers in an effort to corrupt the authorities charged with the enforcement of the law." That paper concludes: "It is a sinister 'racket' all the way through, and the government is justified in adopting the most drastic measures to end its existence." The GOSHEN DAILY NEWS-TIMES adds that "perhaps no form of decadence since the war has been more evident than the spread of gambling," which has "become almost a mania with countless millions in Europe and America." The News-Times continues: "The most spectacular type of gambling is the racket known as 'sweepstakes,' usually based on sporting events in foreign countries. Such enterprises, according to Solicitor Horace J. Donnelly of the federal department of justice, are mostly illegitimate and often deliberate frauds. The sums handled are enormous. He tells of a British horse race in which the subscriptions amounted to $15,000,000 and $10,000,000 was distributed as prizes leaving $5,000,000 for expenses and profits. Aside from the moral and legal questions involved in such a venture, that is too big a rake off. The gambler doesn't get a square deal."

It is this very element of chance that gives the thrill to the gambler however, as the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL points out, since "there is always a fascination about getting rich quick, about picking up easy money." This paper contends that "all must realize that the chances of winning are mighty slim," for while "one hears now and then of some one making big winnings; but one never hears of the multitude who lose. And the big winnings are but a trifle compared with the vast losses." The proposed war on lotteries it approves as "a most commendable thing." As the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH describes the situation, the contrasts are appalling. "Newspaper accounts," it says, "recite at length the joy that comes with the sudden riches that a lucky choice brings, they tell how poverty-stricken longshoremen and ambitious stenographers find themselves suddenly wealthy beyond their fondest dreams, but they say nothing of the million who disappointedly tear up their tickets and wonder how they can replace the hard-earned price of the fruitless chance they bought."

Some objection is voiced to this new governmental alertness. The COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL declares that "the people of the United States are on the whole intelligent enough to take care of themselves," and suggests that "if the government sees an evil in sweepstakes gambling it could give a much more important service by permitting publicity on the whole situation than it can by encouraging the growth of surreptitious and swindling schemes in which ticket buyers do not even have their million-to-one chance to win. People will gamble; they will take a chance and, if there is any government duty in the matter, it is to make certain that tickets are sold only for lotteries run on an honest basis."

"If the government has arranged to prosecute any of the lucky citizens of the United States who received cash prizes from foreign sweepstakes, no one has noticed it," comments the CHARLESTON (S. C.) NEWS AND COURIER. "On the face of it, those who have already benefitted will be left alone, aside from the item of collecting income tax on unearned and excess profits. If the government were to proceed against those who bought or sold tickets in recent months and if convictions were secured, there would have to be additional accommodations in jails." The YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, in contrast, says: "Whether the government is successful in curbing the practices or not, there is one way the individual can beat the game; that is by keeping his money instead of sending it abroad on the long chance that it will return multiplied many times."

TALKING IT OVER

Let's talk it over! Did it matter much
That once we walked where we have grown to ride;
What of those joys which have escaped our clutch?
Did they do more than serve to swell our pride?
Were we not happy with our little then?
With little now can we not smile again?

What matter size and quantity of things?
The days of struggle had their pleasures, too;
What are these woes the present faithe brings
But cares and troubles we have both been through?
We've met them all before and smiled somehow;
Surely we have no need to fear them now.

You say it's going back? Well, what of that?
Our sweetest memories to those old days cling.
I'm sure 'twas oftenest in that first small flat,
When we were poor, I used to hear you sing.
We used to sit and dream together then.
It will be good, I think, to dream again.

This going back is nothing to deplore,
If only love and faith with us remain;
We've stood and laughed at hardship once before,
And we can face that monster grim again.
If we were happy then, as oft we've said,
There's nothing in a humbler life to dread.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE OLD BULLY

The further I travel the more convinced am I that this old man "Depression" has had entirely too much encouragement and that he could be put away and buried most any time if the citizen would cease to talk and show a willingness to work, not five days a week, seven hours a day, at war time wages but work without regard for the clock and for a return equal to just what he could get.

The necessaries of life are selling now for at least twenty-five per-cent less than they were two years ago and if men are paid the same wage they received two years ago they are being paid thirty three and one third per-cent more than they were two years ago. No one has ever discovered a way by which the human could have his cake and eat it.

Work Helps Keep Peace In Prisons

HARRISBURG, July 8.—Citing the records of the States penal institutions as comparatively free from riots during the the period when many serious riots have occured in other States among the prisoners, John L. Hanna, State Secretary of Welfare, in a report to Governor Pinchot today attributed hard work and prison industries as the leading deterrents which have proved effective in Pennsylvania prisons.

Hanna noted that 878 men were employed in the prison industries during the month of April in the four State penal institutions for males under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Welfare. The average number of men employed during the last fiscal period was 729 which was divided as follows: Eastern State Penitentiary, 300; Western State Peniteniary, 230; Rockview State Penitentiary, 65; and the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, 133.

The men shown to be employed by the prison industries by no means covers the entire number of men employed in the prisons, Hanna said. Many are employed in work which is not specialized and therefore do not qualify for trades which the prison industries are confined.

As an instance, Hanna cited the construction programs under way at several of the institutions such as Eastern and Western Penitentiaries where 800 to 1000 men are frequently employed.

"There is no question but that some of the State owned prisons are overcrowded," Hanna said. "Much of this will be relieved when construction programs for which the Governor is permitting adequate funds, are completed. Overcrowding has been mentioned as one of the leading causes of riots in other States. In the meantime however, eight hours a day of healthful, hard labor keeps a man close to a normal life and leaves him comfortably tired at night with little inclination to conspire for rioting. Nothing however, can be said to be a sure preventative."

Hold Girl For Murder Of Youth

Columbus, Georgia Girl Held For Murder Of Childhood Sweetheart

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 8. — A charge of murder today was placed against Miss Mary Cone, 21-year-old daughter of a prominent Baptist minister here, following the death last night of her childhood sweetheart, Preston Dudley, 23.

Date of a preliminary hearing for the girl, who is alleged to have shot her intended husband last Thursday as he sat in his automobile in front of the residence of her father, the Rev. A. J. Cone, was to be set soon.

Dudley died late last night and although conscious until shortly before the end, maintained silence concerning the shooting.

Miss Cone, under arrest since the shooting, likewise had not broken her silence. The girl's father said she shot the youth in self-defense after he pulled a gun and threatened to kill her when she broke their engagement following a quarrel.

ample: there is the tobacco business better than it has ever been and there is the cotton goods manufacturing business, a business that North Carolina together with other Southern states did not have ten years ago and which has grown to be a very big business, mostly at the expense of New England states, and North Carolina is lavishly entertaining this same old bully, "Depression."

Bah! Right across the line, in Virginia, lies Norfolk and a dealer and exporter of soft coal said that he had no reason whatever to complain. He said that the Chesapeake and Ohio Rail-way was hauling so much coal into Norfolk that he had actually seen the same coal car unloaded three times within seventeen days! Young, bouyant, "Optomism" spoke then.

Again, if everyone would just quit talking about "Depression," and say nothing if it were not possible to speak encouraging words, everything would soon have a brighter tinge.

HOW HARD IT IS

To save some folk from their own folly.
To make youth look at life through the eyes of experience.
To get some people to acknowledge that they are well off.
To persuade some people to trust their better judgment.
To help the man who does not want to be helped.
To forgive other people for the faults we find in ourselves.
To build a happy life and leave God completely out.

Acting Mexican Consul Is Free On Habeas Corpus

Officials Puzzled Over Possible International Consequences

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 8—Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul was free on a writ of habeas corpus today after serving four hours in jail for contempt of court while government officials puzzled over the international consequences.

Some claim the six months sentence given by Judge Thomas Green of South Chicago municipal court is a violation of diplomatic immunity which is guaranteed by treaty and may require an apology by the federal government. Others said the consul's status was the same as any foreign citizen and no immunity was involved.

Senor Manuel Tellfz Mexican ambassador, protested to the state department at Washington and wires hummed as Chicago was ordered to forward details to the embassy. Gov. Louis L. Emmerson was asked to make an immediate investigation.

Although there were two stories of what occurred in court to merit the contempt sentence, Judge Joseph Burke who issued the writ and will hear it Saturday, said he would decide only on the legality and propriety of the action.

Judge Green's contempt order charged Dominguez with interceding in a court case in a 'loud and boisterous manner, using abusive language."

Dominguez Attorney T. R. Baker declared: "Judge Green's committment paper contains one lie after another. His explanation is a complete fabrication."

New Law Changes Rule On Interest

HARRISBURG, July 8.—Secretary of Revenue Clyde L. King said today that material changes with respect to interest on corporation taxes and bonus were made in the act approved by Governor Pinchot, June 1.

All settlements or resettlements made after that date will bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent. a year form sixty days after the date of the settlement or resettlement. This will mean that no subsequent resettlement of these accounts will avoid the interest liability as was and is the law for all settlements and resettlements made prior to June 1. Secretary King stated that these changes in the law should be noted by all tax payers.

Star Lore

ALONG THE MOON'S LIMB

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

The limb (edge) of the moon presents a very rugged appearance at many places around its circle, especially the limb south of the lunar equator, for there great mountain ranges lift their lofty summits high into the lunar sky. The limb of the moon from the equator northward is quite free from distinctive elevations, though the moon's north pole comes right between two mountains. There are times, when the sun is under total eclipse, that a beautiful string of ruby beads is visible around the black moon. This effect is produced by the valleys between the lofty lunar mountains at the limb, letting the sun's outer atmosphere shine through. This effect is known as "Bailey's Beads."

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Prior to the construction of the steel plant of the Shenango Valley Steel company back in the nineties and which plant somewhat greater than it was in those days, this city had been marking time, growing slowly and consistently and there had been no unusual happenings to change the calm even trend of the every day life of the community. With the advent of the steel mill and the construction and putting into operation kindred industrial plants, the city began to grow by leaps and bounds. But that has no especial part in the story of the day, which has to do with the phenonenon that occurred, at least it had all the appearances of such an incident in the lives of many of the people, especially the residents of the South Side or the fifth and eighth wards. With the operation of the steel plant, there began a series of what seemed unusual happenings in the South Side district. People would be awakened at night by the swaying of their beds. Awakened from their sleep, they would see rockers in their bedrooms rocking gently back and forward as by some unseen power, pictures were found hanging crooked on the walls in the morning and occasionally during the dead of night sometimes and sometimes in the daytime, apparently without reason or cause, dishes would fall from the shelves and be broken. Some figured it out sooner than others, but eventually, it was determined that these strange things occurred when the heavy rolls of the steel mill were in operation. A little investigation and the theory was fairly well established that these things were caused by the vibration caused by the rolls in operation and transmitted through a strate of quicksand, which apparently exists in large proportions under the plant and extends all through the lowlands of the South Side.

Husband Seeker Getting Plenty Of Applications

Girl Who Would Marry Man With $2000 To Give Her Parents Is Kept Busy

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, July 8.—Pretty Bobbie Connor, aged 20, Four Mile Run Road, is getting plenty of proposals to marry since she offered to wed a man of good reputation who would give her family $2,000.

"All of the men I have seen want me to make up my mind right away," Miss Connor said last night. "I'm not going to be rushed.

"Out of 18 applicants only one man brought his bank book with him to show that he had the required amount. He was an engineer, about 45 years old. His bank book revealed that he had $5,000 ready to start a home with.

Most of the men were under 40 years old, but one was 55, and another of 63 summers was unable to keep his appointment. He called Bobbie and told her he would like to see her later.

"It is funny, but all of the men are interested to know if I can cook. Almost every one who came to see me asked that question," Bobbie said after her first day of interviewing suitors.

Bobbie was born in Austintown and was raised on a farm. She attended Austintown schools. For several years she was a cashier in a local restaurant, but was laid off about a year ago. Now Bobbie wants a home and a husband, while she aids her family.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Vacations Mean Much More Than Overdose Of Sunburn

"Already reports are reaching health officials of the injudicious wooing of the sun by over-enthusiastic vacationists. If those guilty of this offense were young children there might be some excuse. Left to their own devices, the immature judgment of youngsters more likely than otherwise gets them into trouble. But the cases thus far mentioned have without exception been of persons quite old enough to know better," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health, today

"It seems a bit strange that people who spend fifty weeks out of fifty-two in the shelter of home or office will persist in imagining that with safety they can suddenly expose their tender skin to the summer rays for a whole morning or afternoon and escape the penalty of such conduct. Yet literally thousands do this very thing at the seashore or mountain resort.

"Even though the sun lacked its blistering and illness-producing power, there yet would remain a large question mark back of the idea that prompts persons who go on a two week's vacation to crave a red skin. True, it advertises the subject as having been somewhere other than in-doors. But just what interest others have in the matter and in a logical deduction that the colored epidermis is to be interpreted as the result of a temporary lull in everyday duties, is indeed difficult to appreciate.

"After all, the person particularly concerned in the vacation is the one who is having, or has had it. And certainly to be tortured by over-exposure to the sun is not at all necessary to develop this interest.

"Vacations, to the wise person, will mean much more than indulging in undue sun exposure from any motive. It will mean rest, relaxation, body-building and the re-establishing or augmenting of vigor and vitality. Any two week's sojourn that can not show such effects have, to say the least, not been wisely spent.

"While of course the sun possesses excellent therapeutic advantages when properly applied, it calls for extreme restraint and small daily dosage. Use the sun, therefore, when on your excursion on general principles, no matter how well you are. But be sure to handle it with care. Otherwise, it will treat you rough."

Sir Chandrasekara Raman, the distinguished Indian scientist, says that light has angular motion. Sunburn victims say that light picks out the uncomfortable angles.—The New York Sun.

Circus Pleases Large Crowds

Many High-Lights To Performance Of Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus

Largest wild animal menagerie, an oriental spectacle of dazzling array, super aerial stunts and other numerous thrilling features by famous entertainers brought Circus Day to New Castle yesterday when Hagenbeck-Wallace the first circus of the year to come to this city raised its miniature city of 20 tents on the big lot at Mahoning and Cedar streets.

It was Circus Day to the extent that thousands packed the three-ring arena in the afternoon and evening, and when the moguls of the big show pulled down the big top and started the personnel of the acts, the freaks and other principals that make up a circus on the road, they called it a good day's work and looked forward to another showing here next year.

The show opened with "The Golden Orient", a spectacle of old Japan and continued thru two hours with a typical circus program. High lights were Clyde Beatty's wild animal act in a cage in the main ring where he placed 30 wild animals thru a series of maneuvers, the long remembered Hanneford Family of horse riders and commedians, which featured the celebrated "Poodles", the family clown, The Great Wilno, the "human projectile" who was shot from the mouth of a cannon, the European players of the Neiss family, who thrilled with tight wire acts in the highest part of the big top, and the Clarkonians and aerial Shepards.

The animal menagerie, which consists of 30 dens of a variety of wild animals, was opened an hour before the main performances in the afternoon and evening.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 8—Ruling on extradition of John "Jake the barber" factor to England on charges of working a gigantic swindle on British subjects, will be made next week by U. S. Commissioner Walker.

Overshadowing the prolonged hearing before the commissioners on the admissibility of evidence, was action taken in federal court to tie up $3,000,000 in trust funds said to have been established by Factor.

It was filed by a law partner of former U. S. Senator Charles S. Deneen in behalf of two English investors and related that Factor negotiated with Arthur L. Schwartz, of the law firm of U. S. Senator Otis F. Glenn to devise means of placing his "ill-gotten wealth" beyond the reach of his victims.

Five Chicago banks were named as repositories of the trust.

Attorney Schwartz said he would make formal denial of the charges.

Erie Loses In Phone Rate Fight

City Of Erie Loses Second Appeal From Service Commission Order

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—The city of Erie lost its second appeal from the order of the public service commission in relation to the rates of the Mutual Telephone company when the superior court today in an opinion by President Judge Frank M. Trexler, affirmed the order of the commission as of January 4, 1928 dismissing the petition of the city against rates effective April 1, 1928.

The superior court previously on March 1, 1929, in an opinion by Judge J. E. V. Cunningham sustained the report of the commission. However, the matter was not allowed to rest there, and the city of Erie on September 27, 1929, presented its complaint to the commission stating that the income produced from 1927-1929 was much in excess of that anticipated by the testimony before the commission and asked that the rates be scaled down. The commissioner refused.

Germany Moves To Restore Confidence

Banks And Industrial Corporations To Consolidate Financial Position

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 8.—Backed by Germany's biggest banks and industrial corporations, the German government took steps today to consolidate its financial position.

With the Hoover moratorium in effect, the chief task facing the government was restoration of confidence in German stability among foreign creditors who continued to withdraw short term credits despite successful termination of the Franco-American negotations in Paris.

The announcement by Dr. Hans Luther, President of the Reichsbank, that 1,000 German banks and industrial concenns had agreed to deposit with the Gold Discount Bank, a subsidiary of the Reichsbank, a guaranty note for 500,000,000 marks (about $119,000,000) was expected to quiet the nervousness of outside creditors of German industries. The note guarantees repayment of commercial loans.

President Von Hindenburg sent another personal cablegram of thanks to President Hoover for his initiative in obtaining a debt holiday for the Reich.

Youth Who Fled From City Hall Is Recaptured

Federal Marshal Here Today For Trio Charged With Inter-State Larceny

William Broderick, 17, of 600 Willis avenue, Youngstown, who slipped out of the local police headquarters in the wee hours of Tuesday morning after he and a twin brother, Paul, had been told to "wait" while a State Highway Patrol officer took David Bullam for a statement before an alderman, has been apprehended in Youngstown by police, it was reported this afternoon.

He will be brought back here today, and together with his brother and Bullam who are being held at the local city jail will await a Federal marshal to take them to Pittsburgh for the Federal authorities.

The three face charges of interstate larceny, State Highway Patrol officers here said today, for the alleged robbery of an automobile belonging to P. W. Lamb, 1002 Bryson street, Youngstown, yesterday. Paul Broderick, David Bullam, and William Broderick, who made the escape were apprehended by Corp. Lawton and Officer Sarko of the State Highway Patrol on the Youngstown road at about 2 a. m. yesterday.

In the car driven by Bullam, according to police, were two hitch hikers, William Lewis, 20, and Robert Neugebauer, 21 both of Pittsburgh, who had been given a lift by the Brodericks and Bullam.

Stopped by the police near the Bradford airport the driver, Bullam could not give a satisfactory account of himself, according to the Highway Patrol.

The two hitch hikers were released after taken to the city hall here.

Bullam was taken before Alderman Marshall for a sworn statement of the robbery. When Corporal Lawton took Bullam to the alderman, he instructed the Broderick boys to remain at the police headquarters. When the officer returned William Broderick had disappeared. The officers started a search, but could not find the youth here.

French Woman Grows Famous As 'Lamp' Maker

Discovers Attractive Method Of Arranging Glass Decorations

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Special Correspondent

PARIS, July 8.—Further proof of the great progress French women are making in the business world, comes by way of Madame Marguerite Etlin, art decorator and maker of probably the most beautiful crystal chandeliers, lamps, etc., in Paris today.

It is the little glass tube which has brought her fame. Six years ago, Madame Etlin, then merely one of the many chic Parisiennes not in the public eye, discovered that electric light, multiplied by many of these little round tubes produces nothing short of a fairy spectacle in any room.

Her life is perpetual creation. Every day she finds a new motif for an exceptional lamp-shade composed of thousands of these fine tubes, or perhaps a unique shade of cellophane resting in a glass vase or bowl.

Then she makes fascinating little crystal animals, fish of all varieties, statuettes in caricature, more life-like than nature itself, crystal flowers in most delicat form, buttonhole nosegays or large decorative themes.

After-dinner liquor sets, with barrel-bottles and glasses of finest crystal, prismatic goblets and the like are all specimens of exquisite French taste which reveal many hours of research and study for this brilliant young French woman.

Madame Etlin received high honors for her work exposed at the the Exposition des Arts Decoratifs two years ago and was given a big order for the Colonial Exposition. The lighting of Casino at Monaco is one of her most recent and important pieces of work.

Rushes Program For Building Of Rural Highways

Nearly 1300 Miles Under Construction; 15,000 Men Employed

HARRISBURG, July 8.—Nearly 1300 miles of State Highway construction is in progress in Pennsylvania but only seventy-three detours are required, Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis today pointed out in a summary of road work. Only two of these detours are so situated as to affect a considerable volume of traffic but both detours are routed over good hard-surface he said.

"The present condition is unusual in recent years," Secretary Lewis said, "but is easily explained." The Department of Highways is not tearing up improved roads.

"The 1300 miles of construction represents the first improvement from the mud stage to the all-weather, dependable road. Traffic on improved roads continues unhampered while thousands of people watch the road builders and await the day when they will live on a good road' like others."

Detours now in use simply divert traffic from an earth road under construction to another earth road Lewis said. In some cases the detour is better than the first road, although longer.

Nearly 500 miles of contract construction is in progress, including ninety-odd miles carried over from 1930. Swift progress is being made on 800 miles of "light-type" construction recently ordered by Secretary Lewis.

In half a dozen projects relocations are under construction as curative measures for conditions long since proven to be dangerous by the number of accidents, Lewis points out. Treatment of dangerous curves or reconstruction of railroad grade separation structures accounts for several projects on main routes.

The Department has completed more than eighty-five miles of new pavement this season, to date both by contract and Department forces. More than 15,000 men are employed on highway work at present, with possibility of an increase.

"Safety First" Advice Given By Psychologist On Planning To Marry

Wed To Stay Put, Dr. Myers Says, If You Can Be Faithful And Settle Arguments Peacefully

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

As one who has been married for nineteen years I shall presume to offer some advice to my young friends who are thinking seriously concerning marriage.

Now that you are sure you love each other, carefully consider whether you believe you always will. If you are looking for happiness, you want to plan ahead with great care.

Don't set out with any doubts. Marry to stay married. Nothing contributes so much to peace of mind as security nor to want thereof as uncertainty.

Does the one you love come from a family you always will be glad to welcome in your home? Will he or she fit well into the customs and ideals of the family in which you grew up? Is the one you love secure in his or her home? Do his or her parents get on well together?

Can you and your financee settle matters of difference without excitement? Have you learned to talk over such things calmly and with reason? Have each of you found it easy to be faithful to each other over a period of a few years?

Once a pair are mutually pledged such mutual fidelity ought to be a good reason to expect such fidelity after marriage. So far as you are concerned your private pledges to each other are the most important; the marriage vow is a mere formal matter.

If you are to school yourself for a happy married life you will, during your engagement-period, not stoop to childish conduct. Each of you toward each other will observe all the dignities, nice amenities and considerations worthy of your honor.

Conventions have their value to those with character enough to live by them. You doubtless would not choose a mate who to your knowledge had had sex experience out of wedlock. You would want therefore, to prove to your mate the same guarantee. It is a narrow sportsmanship which makes one expect in the other he wishes to marry a higher standard of habits and ideals than he had himself maintained.

If you are mutual lovers really and truly you will guarantee to each other freedom from venerel disease.

The bride a virgin until after marriage, and the bridegroom who had lived accordingly, have ahead of them favorable opportunities, all else equal, for a happy life together. Self-discipline in accordance with the best accepted social restraints and conventions are exceedingly valuable for building the kind of character which will contribute toward martial happiness.

All these new fangled theories about marriage are convenient means of getting social approval for violation of what have proved most valuable for family happiness. There is no royal road to martial felicity that endures. Always there must be discipline of self and a constant effort at cultivating sportsmanship.

No matter how much you love each other now you will need some children in your home to enjoy all the happiness you deserve.

May you, if you marry, stick together lovers and sweethearts to the end.

Grain Reaper Is One Century Old

McCormick Cut First Swath In Virginia In July 1931

CHICAGO, July 8.—Mechanized agriculture today neared the beginning of its second century.

For it was on a July day 100 years ago in a Virginia wheat field that Cyrus Hall McCormick successfully cut a strip of grain with his reaper.

Before then, harvesting was man's most arduous task. Prior to that July day (the exact date has never been ascertained) from the dawn of civilization but slight improvement had been made in the important work of gathering foodstuffs. Only the scythe and cradle had been added to man's harvesting equipment since Ruth gleaned the fields of Boaz in Biblical times.

McCormick did not patent his reaper until 1834 and did not start marketing it until 1840. In the meantime other inventors developed similar machines and the rivalry their products engendered kept up for many years.

The first reaper merely cut some eight to 10 acres of wheat in a day with threshing to follow. The combines now in common use, in a single operation, harvest and thresh some 30 to 40 acres a day.

McCormick died in 1884. He had built his reaper factory in Chicago and developed a great business still manufacturing farm machinery.

New Law Forbids Selling Of Bass

HARRISBURG July 8.—The sale of large and small mouth bass caught in waters within or without this Commonwealth or received in interstate commerce or otherwise is prohibited by provisions of a bill which Governor Gifford Pinchot has approved.

The present law prohibits the sale of trout, and a great many of the sportsmen's organizations throughout the Commonwealth were interested in having a similar bill for bass enacted, Commissioner of Fisheries O. M. Deibler said. He said also that the Federal authorities had requested the enactment of such a law so that it would tie in with their law prohibiting the interstate transportation of bass.

The great source of trouble, the Commissioner stated came from the border states of Pennsylvania, where they permit taking of bass with almost any device. They were being shipped into Pennsylvania to fish dealers and naturally these dealers either had to take them or refuse shipment.

Through co-operation Pennsylvania discouraged the sale of bass in a great many of the markets throughout the State. But the present law will make it a violation punishable by a fine of $10 for each and every fish had in possession and will eliminate for all time the sale of this species of fish unless it is purchased from some persons growing them under a commercial hatchery license. There are no hatcheries of this kind in Pennsylvania.

Reports Show 48,000 Students Graduate From High Schools

Department Of Public Instruction Gives Records For Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, July 8.—According to reports received by the Department of Public Instruction, the 835 Pennsylvania secondary schools offering the full twelve-year course graduated approximately 48,000 students during the recent commencement season. This is an increase of about 5000 over the previous year and more than 7000 above the total for 1928-29.

This increase in the number of graduates is indicative of the tendency of boys and girls to complete the entire secondary school course, officials said. A number of factors are responsible for this trend. One of the most important is the change in industrial conditions which limit the opportunities for individuals below 18 years of age. There is an increasing recognition on the part of those who employ young people that the basic training offered in the high school is essential for successful participation in industrial and commercial activities, according to officials.

The improvement in the secondary school itself is another influence which has caused pupils to remain in school for a longer period. Not only in schools offering differentiated courses but an attempt is being made throughout the Commonwealth to organize the school work in such a way that more attention can be given to individual differences.

The attempt to set up techniques which will aid the individual student in developing his own learning activities is considered one of the most significant phases of modern education. Mass instruction is giving way to a co-operative program in which each pupil has some opportunity to advance at his own rate, and to engage in activities which are educationally important and which satisfy individual interests.

It is believed that the upward trend of high school enrollments, which has been experienced during the past ten years, will continue. Only 40 per cent of the individuals eligible to attend high school are now enrolled in Pennsylvania secondary schools. The 60 per cent. remaining constitute the large group from which future increases will be drawn.

An IRONRITE Will Iron Shirts
---and press trousers, too

Ironing men's shirt is an important part of the family ironing. It takes a fast ironer from eight to ten minutes to iron just one shirt by hand. Yet that same shirt can be completely and perfectly ironed on an Ironrite by an inexperienced operator in approximately four minutes. Not only does Ironrite iron shirts, but anything washable can be handled on this modern laundry unit.

Finds It Hard To Drive Car On A Straight Road

Supt. John C. Syling Gives Experience Driving Over Lonely Desert

Driving a car on a straight stretch of road, in which there is not a curve as far as the eye can reach, might be considered a comparatively easy matter by the average motorist, but it is not so easy as it looks, according to County Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling, who has just returned from a trip to California.

"I found this out when I was crossing the desert," said Mr. Syling this morning. "I could see the road for probably 25 or 30 miles ahead, with not a car in sight, but somehow the perspective, or the monotony of the long ribbon of glistening white, grew exceedingly irksome. It was not long until I found that it required more vigilance to keep my car on that straight stretch of road, than I ever experienced on a road with curves or bends.

The road across the desert was not concrete, but appeared to be constructed of sand, gravel and probably some cement. It was free from little holes, which so often render this type of road rought, but it was not as smooth as concrete.

Injunction Granted In Suit In Equity

Trouble Grew Out Of Opening Restaurant On Long Avenue In Violation Of Agreement

Testimony was taken at court today in an equity suit brought by John Dimizas and Mary Staful against John Tallas and John Viti, in which it is asked that the defendants be restrained from opening a restaurant on Long avenue, on the grounds that it is in violation of an agreement made between the plaintiffs and defendants.

It is claimed by the plaintiffs that they bought a restaurant on Long avenue from the defendants, and that as a condition of the purchase the defendants agreed not to open up in the restaurant business within 1500 feet. Defendants, on the other hand, admitted that they had signed the agreement, but claimed that they did not know that it contained the stipulation that they were not to open up within 1500 feet. The location which they selected is said to be about 975 feet from the place sold plaintiffs.

The court granted the preliminary injunction as asked.

Garden Project Brings Results

Gardens Of Unemployed Are Growing Nicely And Will Soon Bear Crops

Practically every one of the gardens, which were started this spring under the auspices of the local charitable organizations, assisted by the city and county, has been well taken care of, and the gardens are now in fine condition.

Within a short time now, the owners will start reaping the benefit of their labor as the beans, peas, corn, etc., begin to bear fruit.

Only a few cases have been found where the gardens have not been well cared for, the weeds kept out and the plot cultivated.

In such cases as the last, arrangements are being made to have some one take over the garden who will take care of it.

Cherry Canneries Purchase By Grade

HARRISBURG, July 8—The canning of cherries which started several weeks ago in the southern counties and will soon commence in Erie county is being done almost entirely under State supervision according to D. M. James of the bureau of markets, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. All but one of the important cherry canners in the Commonwealth are purchasing fruit for canning this year on the basis of the newly established U. S. grade for cherries, and are being assisted by State inspectors in determining the proper grades for each producer's lot.

A large crop of excellent fruit is reported from practically all sections. The sale of this fruit on the basis of grades enables each producer to secure a premium price for his high quality product it is explained.

Last year the cherry inspecting work was carried on in a preliminary way only. This year it is expected that fully 4,000,000 pounds of the fruit will be purchased by grade.

wishes for a very successful and happy future."

With these preliminary remarks, Major Wadlinger then proceeded with the program of the evening. First of the several speakers called upon was Rev. Fr. P. J. McKenna, pastor of St. Mary's Parish, who had been assigned the subject of "My Co-worker." In introducing Father McKenna, Major Wadlinger remarked that Father Kenna would have the opportunity of telling the shortcomings as well as the good points of his assistant.

Father McKenna Speaks

The remarks of Father McKenna were complimentary in the broadest sense of the word, as he said among other things "In my association with Father Nee as one of the assistants in St. Mary's Parish, I would say that he had no short comings and that if he has, he must have kept them under cover. He has been in our midst for four years and it is not necessary for me to tell you of his virtues. He has endeared himself to everybody. Your good wishes and prayers will follow him. We are sorry that he is leaving New Castle and St. Mary's Parish. I wish him oceans of success and good luck wherever he may go. It will be a pleasure to remember him as my co-laborer."

Dr. H. E. Zerner

The second speaker was Dr. H. E. Zerner who was assigned the subject of "My Friend." He said among other things "I feel signally honored in being permitted to speak here on an occasion like this and concerning one whom I hold as a very dear friend. I like to rejoice in the advancement of Father Nee, but I am selfish enough to regret that he is leaving. It is in our association as friends, that we learn the virtues and also the weaknesses of men. I can say that I have never seen another person so contained and composed as he, his every move being characterized by control, earnestness and strength. It seems most fitting that it should be said in the words of the master "Enter thou into the place which I have prepared for thee" as Father Nee is surely on his way to bigger and better things."

Father Clifford

Father F. S. Clifford, associate assistant with Father Nee was the next speaker and his remarks were in keeping with the occasion and expressed the appreciation of the cooperation and companionship that had existed between them during their stay here together and the hope that the friendship formed here, would continue. In conclusion, he presented Father Nee with a check, which represented the tributes of esteem that the members of the congregation wished to express to Father Nee in his departure. In making the presentation, Father Clifford expressed his appreciation of the assistance given him by the ladies in securing the money represented in the check.

Departing Pastor Speaks

Father Nee was the concluding speaker of the evening and expressed his appreciation of the kindness of those with whom he had been associated with in the work of the parish, the kindness and hospitality of the members of the parish and of those friends whom he had made in his stay here.

He said among other things 'I am deeply grateful for the kindness shown me here and for the gift. I apreciate it all the more because I feel that it represnts the good will of all and I am receiving it in the same spirit.

"After four years, I feel that I know you and that you know me. I feel that I have the friendship of every one in the parish and have never felt otherwise. You have been most hospitable and friendly to me. St. Mary's parish had a tradition that its members are solid in the faith and respectful and faithful to their leaders and their duties and I feel that the tradition will continue. Father McKenna has done everything to make my stay most pleasant and I take this opportunity of so expressing myself.

"I wish to thank all for the kindness shown me since I have been in New Castle. 'God Bless You All.' "

Musical Program

The musical program of the evening was of exceptional merit and thoroughly enjoyed by those present. St. Mary's quartette consisting of Francis Morrissey, Stephen Griffith, John T. Griffith and Bernard Rogan with Father F. S. Clifford as director and accompanist, was heard in several numbers and displayed the unusual ability for which the group is now generally given credit. Miss Julia McCoy was also heard in two vocal numbers, which she presented in her usual pleasing manner and to the entertainment of those present. William Williams Jr. one of the city's best known male voice soloists, was also heard in two numbers and he was at his best in the presntation of his selections.

Father Nee is scheduled to leave today and assume his duties as an assistant pastor in St. Peter's Parish, N. S. Pittsburgh under Rev. Fr. F. F. O'Shea, former pastor of St. Mary's Parish and under whom Father Nee served here as assistant when he first arrived. Rev. Fr. Leo Watterson who has been an assistant in St. Peter's Parish, comes here in place of Father Nee.

Seated on the platform with the honor guest during the reception was Major Guy Wadlinger, chairman: the speakers, Rev. Fr. P. J. McKenna, Rev. Fr. F. S. Clifford, Dr. H. E. Zerner and Rev. Fr. Jos. A. Deerr, pastor of St. Joseph's church and Rev. Fr. A. E. Heinrich of Pittsburgh.

Sports Of Summertime Train Soul And Body Dr. Clendening Claims

Physician Explains Benefits Of Fishing As Exercise And For Learning Something Of Nature

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Fishing is more exercise for the fish than for the fisherman. But except for the famous ones that got away, obviously not quite so healthy.

Of course, it depends a little bit on how you do your fishing. If you just sit on a bridge or on the edge of a bank, you do not exert yourself unduly. But rowing a boat is about as good a form of exercise as anybody could wish. It develops all parts of the body—back, arms, forearms, hands, shoulders, abdominal muscles and legs. And it is conducted against resistance so that it really develops the muscles and adds to their strength.

But actual development of the muscles alone is not the only part of the body that gets benefit from sports, as I have tried to show this week. The training of the eye, the nervous system and the senses—even the soul—comes in for consideration.

No sport does more for this than fishing. Some one long ago adapted Kipling's poem to muskellonge fishing as follows:

"Youth's daring courage, Manhood's fire,
Strong hand and eagle eye
Must he acquire who would aspire
to see the muskie die."

There, you see, are the elements of the soul as well as the body. The things a boy learns of Nature's secrets when going fishing will be of benefit to him all his life. The adjustment between plants and animals, the way each living creature has to make his way in life, the different adaptations they all make to conform to the basic requirements of life—oxygen and food—in order to continues to live as individuals and to reproduce the species, is about as valuable an education as anyone can get. Going fishing is a splendid laboratory course in biology.

Fortunately, there is now one book available that every fisherman should take with him on his expedition. That is, "The Science of Life," by Wells, Huxley and Wells. With this work along the whole world around the fisherman is revealed. The fish itself is a sufficiently illuminating study to one who understands all about it. The gills acting as lungs in the fish's surrounding medium of water, which seems so strange to us air breathers, have a pertinent message for us. Because some of the fish's structure still remains in our bodies. In some people you can easily see the reminiscences of the gill clefts of our fishy ancestors—in these people the gill clefts persist in the neck forming strange lumps and masses that often give a great deal of trouble.

One reminder of our fishy ancestral days that is in all of us is the recurrent laryngeal nerve—the nerve on the left side which innervates the vocal cord on that side. Its structure shows a great waste of tissue because it originates high upon the neck, passes clear down into the chest, hooks around tthe arch of the great blood vessel, the aorta, and then climbs clear back to the voice box in the neck. The explanation, as given by anatomists, is that the aorta originated from the blood vessel in one of the gills and in the course of development the recurrent laryngeal nerve got hooked around it, and was carried down into the chest.

Erecting 18,000 Feet Of Fence At Akron Dirigible Field

Making Plans For Trial Flight Of Great U. S. Navy Zeppelin

AKRON, O., July 8.—Erection of what is believed to be the longest fence in Ohio was begun at Akron municipal airport this week in preparation for trial flights of the U. S. S. Akron, world's largest airship, which is being completed in the huge dock of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation for the United States navy.

A total of 18,000 feet of fence will surround the port, and is designed to keep the field clear during trial flight periods, when it is extremely important that officers in charge of the giant ship have the least possible interference in conducting their maneuvers.

The first section of the fence which is now being erected, will run along the north, west and south sides of the port, with a total length of 14,000 feet. This section is of the woven wire type, five feet in height. The east side of the port is to be provided with 4000 feet of temporary "snow fence", composed of 100-foot sections of pickets, which may be put in place during trial flights and later removed to avoid interference with gliding and other activities in that area.

Thousands of persons are visiting the dock each week to view the Akron, which is nearing completion. The top vertical and two horizontal fins have been placed in position, and a major portion of the ship's silver outer cover has been supplied.

Will Take Several Months To Work Out Debt Details

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 8.—It will take at least several months for the international committee of experts to work out all the multitudinous details of President Hoover's debt holiday agreement, it was said at the State Department today.

With so many governments involved, and so many interlocking agreements between them, the committee of experts probably will have to labor right up to December to get the plan in operation before payments again fall due on Dec. 15.

First Day At Y.M.C.A. Camp Is Very Active

Camp Scribe Wilkins Describes Camp Diversions As Boys Open Summer Season

Monday morning marked the first opening for the younger boys' group at the Fred L. Rentz Y. M. C. A. Camp on Slippery Rock Creek.

The early part of the day was spent in making bunks, getting acquainted, and enjoying a plunge in the new swimming hole. After partaking of a bountiful breakfast prepared by the new cook, Earn Brown, who is known to the boys as "Brownie," a rest hour was observed, followed by mushball and base ball in which all took part.

On the first evening the camp was divided into two sides, the Army and Navy for several fast games of soccer, handball and prisoner's ball.

The first camp fire was held after dusk. The fire shot sparks, and the flames leaped high, lighting the wooded area about the camp and bringing visions and forms to the darkness about the boys. The evening was made more impressive by the telling of several stories, including "Diamond Death," told by Jack (Mac) McConahy and "Dracula" by Ed Fritz.

Camp Director Bill Thomas explained the new standardized camp award system which covers a larger field of camp life in the making and gives the camper a higher realization of the benefits derived from things for which a person strives.

When heads began to nod and eyes to blink the program was brought to a conclusion and every one traveled the path to a good night's sleep. Devotionals were held in each tent as has been the custom in the past, and the largest enrollment since the camp was founded crawled into bed after an exciting day.

Many new attractions have been added and several improvements included. The construction of a new swimming pool, planting of flowers and shrubbery, the installation of an incenerator and the near completion of electric wiring has made this the beginning of one of the best camping seasons ever held under the auspices of the "Y".

Carideo's Denial Is Now Confirmed

Denials which were made early last winter by Frank Carideo, Notre Dame football star, that he was engaged to wed a movie star, and which greatly embarrassed him at the time, have now been confirmed by the announcement that he is to marry Miss Vera Imogene Crawley of Columbia, Miss., shown above.

Miss Crawley met Carideo during a visit to South Bend last fall. She is a graduate of Mississippi Women's College.

The rumors that Carideo was to wed the movie actress came just at the time he was in New Castle for the big banquet tendered him by local admirers, and he spent considerable time answering telegrams, denying the rumors.

McCalla, Graham, To Give Testimony

Traction And Utility Company Officials To Appear In Thomas Trial

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 8.—More traction company and utility company officials were to take the stand today in the blackmail trial of County Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas. Appearing as defense witnesses, R. N. Graham, traction manager of the Youngstown Municipal Railway Co., and C. S. McCalla, vice president and manager of the Ohio-Edison company, were to give testimony today following the disclosures of shooting incidents as contained in the evidence of County Detective W. J. Harrison.

Harrison, assigned by Thomas to guard the estate of John T. Harrington, millionaire lawyer and former vice-president of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power company, revealed that shots had been fired five or six times by guards around the property of Harry Engle, the ousted traction commissioner. Harrison had been assigned to guard the property after Engle had been alleged to have made threats on the life of Harrington.

The detective's testimony also declared that in a search of Engle's car, a revolver wrapped in a white cloth had been discovered. That Engle had made threats against Harrington—presumably in connection with a large sum of money Engle asserted was due him from the Ohio-Edison company—was told when W. W. Foster, chairman of the General Fireproofing Co., and John Rowland, president of the Mahoning National bank, took the stand. Both testified that Engle was highly excited when they heard him voice his threats against Harrington.

States Should Take Care Of Wayward Child

Wickersham Commission Says Government Is Not Equipped To Care For Them

URGE STATE CONTROL IN FEDERAL CASES

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Uncle Sam is not equipped to serve as a guardian or corrective agent for the nation's delinquent children, and the states should be charged almost entirely with the task of reforming them and returning them to society as potentially useful citizens.

This decision was reached by the now defunct Wickersham commissionon law enforcement and observance following an exhaustive research embracing the treatment of wayward juveniles in every section of the country, according to a report to President Hoover issued "Posthumously" by the White House today. It was headed "The Child Offender In The Federal System Of Justice."

Recommending legislation empowering the Government to withdraw from prosecution of minors who have run afoul of Federal laws, whenever in the public interest, and leaving the treatment of their cases to the juvenile courts or other welfare agencies of their own states, the commission declared:

"The Federal Government is not equipped to serve as a guardian to the delinquent child. Nor should it assume this task. Whenever a child has broken a Federal law, his local community has failed in its responsibility to furnish adequate parental guidance. This duty is local, not national. The community has facilities with which to perform it. The nation has not.

Report On Findings

It was pointed out that the Federal system is designed to handle adults, and a far from pretty picture was drawn of conditions and methods of treatment in the institutions where the government has been forced to send the 2,243 boys and girls of 18 years and under who were held in jail for violating Federal statutes during the last six months of 1930.

Appended to the commission's report was a 160-page digest of the findings of the woman who conducted the study, Dr. Miriam Van Waters, consultant to the Harvard Law School crime survey and former referee of the juvenile court of Los Angeles. She observed, in part:

"Some jails in the Southern and Southwestern districts are old and unfit: Tiers of cells are in partial darkness. The general supervision of inmates is in the hands of trustees. Prisoners are in total idleness with no opportunity for exercise, with space scarcely sufficient to move. Meals are eaten in the cells. These jails present a situation of filth and misery impossible to convey. X X X

"The best of the institutions houses the children in large groups, usese basements for living and play rooms, employs disciplinary measure such as silence at meals, marching, formal routine, and flogging; inmates are frequently at the mercy of boy captains; the worst is not to be distinguished from the prison.

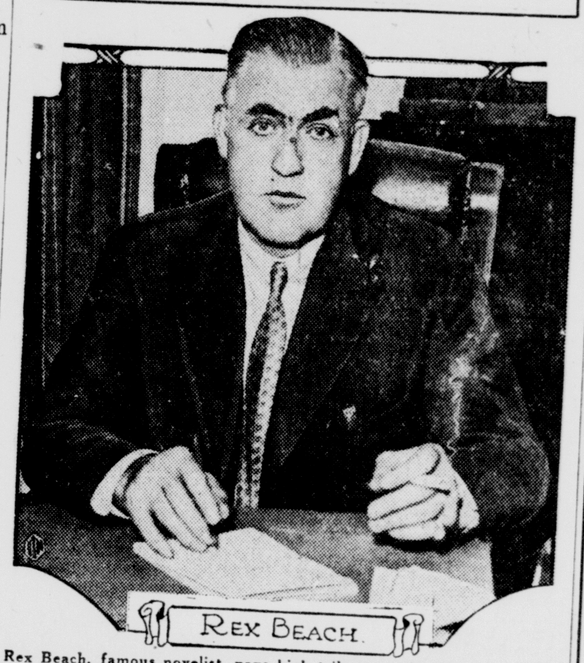
"Individualization of treatment has not been accomplished. In some instances the child offender is properly clothed, fed, put to school and work, but the need of the spirit for creative outlets, personal guidance, and satisfying human relationships is unfulfilled. X X X

"It ist a matter for some interpretive comment that the harshest punishments are found usually in the institutions for the reform of young children."

Woman in Business Is Praised by Rex Beach

* * * * * *

Famous Novelist Says Fair Sex Took Market Crash in Far Better Spirit than Male Rivals on "Street."



REX BEACH

Rex Beach, famous novelist, pays high tribute to the woman in business in his new book cleverly captioned "Mad Money." It it not difficult to surmise that this latest novel from the hand of the well known author deals with the seven fat financial years which misled nearly every one in the ways of making money until the grand crash came. Mr. Beach, in writing about the stock market collapse, declares that women weathered the storm with far greater calm and determination to carry on than their male rivals. The author unmistakably has joined the ranks of those who foresee a definite niche and an important one for women in business, their future, to his mind, being assured from the splendid manner in which they have conducted their early business contacts.

Swim Tests Held At Camp Phillips

Water Sport Contests Find All Participating Campers Are Listed

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 8.—The swimming program at Camp John M. Phillips has been entered into with interest. This week swimmers' badges were awarded to the following boys: Ed. McCamic, Dick Hamilton, Jack Higgins, Steve Griffith, John Travers, Howard Swick. The beginners' badge was awarded to Jim Humphrey. The following boys working on their first-class badges completed their 14-mile hike today: Bob Miner, Joe Loyd, J. Reid, Crowley, Ed. McCreary and Howard Swick. These trips included visits to Y. M. C. A. Camp, McConnell's Mills and Break Neck bridge. Others of the Scouts passed first aid and signaling tests.

During the past few days work has been progressing on improving the amphitheater and it will be in readiness for the first court of honcr. Immediately after colors tonight a treasure hunt was taken part in by all the campers. After a long and hot chase hut 10, led by Herb Christman, was the first to uncover the treasure, which was a case of ice cold pop. The winners proved to be good Scouts and shared the win with the other hunters. The campers are looking forward to a ghost hike, court of honor and several new and interesting games which are being played at the camp this year.

Attitude Of Red Cross Criticized

Strikers And Union Leaders Condemn Decision Not To Aid Families

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Disappointment and condemnation by strikers and union leaders today greeted the announcement by the American Red Cross that no aid would be offered destitute miners and their families in the Pennsylvania soft coal field, paralyzed by a seven weeks' strike.

P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared:

"The Red Cross failed to help the miners in 1922, 1927 and 1928 and it might be expected help would not be extended in 1931.

"Nevertheless, the average person contributes to the organization in the belief it was created to help people in distress, and these miners certainly are in distress.

"During the war and afterward, the miners contributed heavily to the Red Cross. Now, when they are in need, the door to relief is closed."

Three Slight Accidents Are Reported Here

Albert Wigton of Edenburg, Pa., reported to the police that he had his car parked on North Liberty St. and that a machine bearing Pennsylvania license 83B97 going south on North Liberty street, hit and damaged his machine.

Martin Clobrider, 1512 Poplar St. reported that he was enroute west on Mahoning avenue, when Mrs. R. D. Richards, going in the same direction in front of his machine made a left hand turn into McKinley street, and the machines came together, some damage being done.

Helen Colbert of 1054 Beckford St. reported that she was enroute west on Long avenue at Clearview avenue, as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 7814C pulled out of Clearview avenue and the machines came together. Some damage was done.

Miss Frances Isenberg of Dayton has arrived here to be the guest this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gonick, Winter avenue. She will be entertained by Miss Beatrice Gonick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gonick.

Fair Dates Are Announced For September 16-18

Automobiles Will Be Admitted And Parked Free Of Charge This Year

Announcement was made today by representatives of the New Castle Agricultural Association that dates for the New Castle Fair this fall had been definitely decided upon. While September 15 had been tentatively selected as the opening date of the fair, it was decided not to open on that date as the September primaries will be held that day. The dates definitely decided upon are September 16, 17 and 18.

There will be a racing program on the last two days, with six harness race events on the two days, also a number of pony races.

There will be the usual exhibits of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, farm products, etc., and premiums offered for the winners in the various exhibits.

In the effort to make this year's fair a success and operate it without a deficit, all passes have been abolished, even the directors paying for their admittance to the grounds. A feature that will appeal to many will be the abolition of the customary charge for admitting and parking automobiles. All automobiles will be admitted and parked free of charge.

Special Clinics Aid In Treating Mental Patients

HARRISBURG, July 8.—A recommendation for the establishment of occupational therapy centers in some of the cities of the state for the rehabilitation of discharged mental cases and the supervision of parole patients needing profitable employment, was contained in a report of the bureau of mental health, to John L. Hanna, state secretary of welfare. The report also traced the growth of occupational therapy from 1922 when the first field representative for the bureau was appointed, to the present time.

Of the eight state owned mental hospitals, five have well organized under the direction of trained therapists, according to the report. Of the three state hospitals which do not have such departments, one is for male criminal cases only and has hospital industries.

The report further showed that there are thirteen county hospital services licensed for the care of mental cases and of these five have occupational therapy departments under trained workers and two are carrying on special classes.

The report also indicates that in carrying out the program of occupational therapy in the institutions listed more than 10,000 reprints have been distributed for general educational publicity and annual exhibits have been prepared for state meetings.

Eldredge (above), Illinois game warden, was found shot to death on his private game preserve near Richmond, in Lake County, Illinois. Authorities are mystified by the strange case, but believe Eldredge was murdered with his own gun.

Bobby Jones' Crown for Burke

After the most prolonged and strenuous battle in the history of the game, that looked as if, like Tennyson's brook, it would go on forever, Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., is shown above receiving the trophy emblematic of the National Open Golf Championship which he won by his victory of one stroke over George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, in their second 36-hole play-off at the Inverness Golf Club course at Toledo, Ohio. Burke and Von Elm fought a homeric battle with the issue in doubt up to the last hole. Final score was Von Elm, 149; Burke, 148. Burke is at left in above photo; center is H. H. Ramsay, President of American Golfers' Association, who made the presentation while Von Elm (at right) looks on.

Young Vikings Plan Voyage

A Family at Law

A welcome change from news of "in-laws" is the Russell family of Georgia. It's a case of a family at law. Ina D. Russell, sister of Governor Russell of Georgia and daughter of Chief Justice Russell of the Georgia Supreme Court, is shown at right as she receives the congratulations of her father after being admitted to practice before the high tribunal. WEST VIRGINIA'S COSTLY CAPITOL NEAR COMPLETION

The main unit of West Virginia's new $10,000,000 capitol, in Charleston, will be ready for occupancy about Oct. 1. It will unite three buildings into one structure and bring all the departments under one roof. They have been scattered since the old capitol burned, in 1921. With the exception of the dome, which stands 296 feet high, and the interior decorations, it is virtually complete. This photo gives a rear view of the entire capitol as it looks now.

Both officers have been assigned to the frigate "Constitution," shortly to start from Boston on a tour of the nation during which she will fly the flags. The presentation ceremony took place aboard the historic "Old Ironsides," with a detachment of marines lined up as guard of honor.

Icy Message From Pulpit

Torrid weather has no respect for persons or places, and so when Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York, found that he was waxing altogether too hot in his pulpit and the congregation was not surviving much better, he introduced an icy motif to his house of worship. While his verbal message from the pulpit was not tinged with frigidity, the ice and snow banked around the dais helped to put the congregation in a cooled state of mind, according to Dr. Reisner, who is shown above with his novel refrigerator plan.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

NEW YORK, July 8— Harold Gatty and Wiley Post are tasting the heady stuff of a New York welcome to heroes. I wonder what went on in their heads as they leveled off to land at Roosevelt Field—where floodlights slithered on a shadowy, milling mob.

The trip was over, the globe circled, the record hung up. To the west, as they cut the switch, they could see the glittering pendant of Manhattan. There fame waited to hug them close. Did they ride the dizzy crest of that moment—get all out of it that it held?

I doubt it. I doubt if Lindbergh did, or anybody in a comparable situation before or since.

Gatty, I suspect, was thinking how good a bed would feel and how stiff his arm was from that propeller blow at Solomon. Post undoubtedly had as little interest in hosannas at that moment as his companion: he was preoccupied, I'll wager, with something like a terrific yen for a glass of water, or with wonder whether his wife would get through that yelling crowd below.

Or maybe both of them, too, dazed and tired for rational thought were playing with the spelling of the word Blagoveshschensk. . .

That way does glory come banging down!

GALLERIES IN GOTHAM

From a Manhattan rent schedule: Apartment 12-D, 4 rms., bath, kitchen, $1,800. Apartment 14-D. Same as 12-D but with terrace, $2,600.

Which means that for a stone balcony exactly ten feet long and two feet wide two small for a bridge table, the occupant must pay $800 a year. It would be interesting to measure many of these terraces in the sky, figure out what they cost—and then compare them with your own spacious porch.

Yet the smallest terrace is large enough for a geranium pot, and you don't know what that can mean in lives embroidered with stone and steel!

Pinchot Asks For Help Of Red Cross

Asks Red Cross To Aid In Feeding Starved Children Of Coal Regions

Governor Pinchot Writes To Chairman Of American Red Cross On Plight

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 8.—A plea by Gov. Gifford Pinchot for aid of the American Red Cross in feeding starving children of striking bituminous coal miners of Western Pennsylvania lay before officials of the relief organization today.

"There exists in Pennsylvania," said the governor in a letter to John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, "A situation so serious I desire to call it to your personal attention with direct hope of securing the assistance of the red cross immediately.

"Children of unemployed miners in Western Pennsylvania are, as a rule, very seriously underfed. The result of this dire hardship to them is, however, not only physical. They will suffer in their bodies all their lives but they will suffer also in their attitude toward the government and institutions of the United States.

"These children and their parents are being told by Communist agitators that their sufferings are due to the operations of our government. The consequence, naturally, is great bitterness toward American institutions.

"The situation in Western Pennsylvania, could scarcely be worse and probably would not be as bad if a great natural calamity had visited the region."

The state, Governor Pinchot said, is powerless to do anything in the situation. No money which can legally be devoted to aiding starving children is available, he told Payne, and it is doubtful whether such appropriations could be made under the state constitution.

"Local resources are either exhausted or out of reach," the governor said. "I am writing the most urgent appeal I know how to make for cooperation in this genuine calamity. I am not asking for assistance for grown-ups but I am pleading for the children whose present physical suffering will reach into the rest of their lives. If you can help these children, I beseech you to do so."

Red Cross Reply.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Extension of relief to families of miners in the strike-torn coal region of Pennsylvania and neighboring states is not within the scope of activity of the American Red Cross, John Barton Payne, national chairman, said today.

The position of the Red Cross was stated in a letter to Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who appealed for aid for starving children and striking soft coal miners.

Strike Leaders Face Grand Jury

Grand Jury Hears Testimony On Fatal Wildwood Mine Riot, June 22

FACE CHARGES OF MANSLAUGHTER

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Herbert Reel, Allegheny county deupty sheriff, and Thomas Meyerscough, self-admitted radical strike leader, today were faced with Grand jury action on manslaughter charges on the recommendation of a coroner's jury which yesterday heard testimony on the fatal Wildwood mine riot last June 22.

Much of the testimony was given Coroner McGregor and the jury through the mouth of an interpretor as one by one, the large group of striking miners and their wives, many of them present in the thick of the rioting which claimed the life of Spiro (Pete) Ziagarac, gave version of the clash.

Reel, at the request of coroner McGregor, gave a complete account of his activities on the day of the riot. He claimed he fired four shots; two in the air, one into the ground, and one wild.

Meyerscough, held to stringent questioning by the coroner, admitted he was aware of the court injunction restraining picketing at the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company but said he urged the miners to march in defiance.

Von Hindenburg Takes Action To Bolster Credit

Gold Discount Bank Can Now Extend Credit To Reichsbank

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 8.—President Paul Von Hindenburg today issued a decree authorizing the government to draw on the 500,000,00 mark credit guaranteed by the 1,000 leading German firms, as a measure to bolster the government's credit.

The decree authorized the government to make a proportionate levy on all business enterprises which signed the credit guarantee having a capital or property valued at over 5,000,000 marks. The decree makes this levy effective today.

The effect is that the Gold Discount bank, to whose credit this guarantee was placed by the leading industrial concerns, can now extend credit to the Reichsbank, since the government has given the credit pledge official sanction.

Congratulations Are Due

Here the former chief executive and gracious Mrs. Coolidge, with evident enjoyment, are shown presiding over the traditional birthday delicacy at their home at Swampscott, Mass.

Ferree Claim Is Not allowed In Court's Opinion

Court Cannot Encroach On Jurisdiction Of Workmen's Compensation Board

In the case of Clarence Ferree against the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, based on an appeal from the action of the Workmen's Compensation Board, Judge R. L. Hildebrand handed down an opinion today in which the appeal is dismissed and judgment is directed to be entered for the defendant.

Ferree is the cripple who sells papers at the corner of the city building on Washington street. Not long ago a wheel chair was purchased for him by popular subscription.

Ferree was employed at one of the plants of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company in this city. While at work he fell on a track used in running small cars in the plant and injured his spine.

He was taken to the old Shenango Valley hospital, and later to a hospital in Pittsburgh, where an operation was performed. It was contended that the physicians did not know exactly what was the matter. He was in several other hospitals, all at the expense of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

When the case came before the referee for the Workmen's Compensation the claim was set up that previous to the accident Ferree had suffered physical disability, that he "shuffled" his feet. This was denied by Farree, but the referee found it a fact, and in his finding was sustained by the board.

An appeal from the decision was then taken to the local court. In his opinion Judge Hildebrand says: "The plaintiff's plight is one which naturally excites sympathy of every person to whose attention it comes. Presumably it has had this effect upon his counsel, whose zeal and pertinacity in the prosecution of the claim are commended.

"However much as we might desire it, the law permits us to extend no relief. The court may not encroach upon the jurisdiction which the legislature has determined belongs exclusively to the referee of the Workmen's Compensation Board."

Judge Hildebrand quotes supreme court decisions upholding this point, and concludes, "The findings of fact, conclusions of law and disallowance of the claim by the referee as approved by the Workmen's Compensation Board, are affirmed, and the appeal dismissed. Judgment is directed to be entered for the defendant."

Says Mail Boxes Should Stand To Right Of Roadway

Carriers, Postmaster Declares, Are Forbidden To Zig-Zag On Routes

Rural mail boxes should be set to the right of the road from the direction in which carriers approach them, Postmaster Edwin W. Crawford, in reply to a query, stated today. The matter arose recently when objections were filed with Washington headquarters by patrons who set forth the risk being taken by those who must cross the road.

The objection came from another section of the country, after the department's ruling on the location of the receptacles had been announced.

Countering the objection, the department declared that the practice of carriers zig-zagging across the roadway to the boxes would be of greater risk.

State Approves Rentz Y. M. C. A. Camp On Creek

Following a rigid inspection by an inspector from the state department of health and the state Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday, the Rred L. Rentz Y. M. C. A. camp was approved by both.

The state inspector inspected the kitchen, wire screening, dining room and swimming pool. He made numerous inquiries into the general condition of the food and inspected samples as required by the state.

Charles E. Ford, the state "Y" inspector, asked Camp Manager R. L. Meermans for a detailed list of the camp program, the number of swimmers available and also the number of boys who do not swim. It was reported to him that of the 70 boys at camp only six are not able to swim. They will be taught swimming during the vacation period.

The inspectors both asked for reports on food at camp. Only fresh vegetables, milk, butter and other foods are permitted under the state health laws.

RAZE FAMOUS OLD WHOLESALE LIQUOR STOREHOUSE HERE

Its ancient walls bent outward by piles of heavy barrels filled with liquor when it was in its heyday, a two-story brick structure at 21-23 South Jefferson street, once one of the best known wholesale liquor establishments in the city, today became the mark of workmen who started the job of razing to make way for an automobile service station.

At No. 21, the storeroom was for over 20 years the laundry of George Yee, a well known local Chinese character, and in later years, newly arrived Chinamen who opened laundries in the same room, continued to call their business in Yee's name.

The liquor establishments that supplied local saloons for many years was at No. 23.

A beer advertisement is still plainly visible on a side of the building.

Save Food For Local Hospital

While housewives are busily engaged in making cherry jelly and marmalade and canning raspberries, currants and plums to be used during the winter months, the Jameson Hospital Aide Society wishes to remind them to lay aside some of the canned food, to be donated to the hospital patients.

Last November the Aide Society sponored several food donation days and the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence county responded so generously that by the second day the cans and jars of food in the hospital lobby were piled almost ceiling high.

Throughout the past winter the foods given so generously by the local people have had prominentt places on the trays of many hospital patients. The donations have been appreciated over and over again.

Another such donation campaign will be launched at about the same time this year and it is believed, since this has been such a wonderful year for crops, that the donations will far exceed those of last year.

Mrs. J. Norman Martin, president of the Jameson Hospital Aide Society, announced this morning that there are quite a number of jars at the hospital, from last year's donations, and can be secured by those who left them.

While canning, think of the hospital patients, and lay some aside for them!

BLOOD PRESSURE MAY BE REDUCED

High blood pressure is not only dangerous, but entails suffering which often is needless. But you can get rid of the kidney and bladder weakness, blinding headaches, back-break pains and torturing nerve tension while reducing pressure.

Ask your druggist for a box of Wildunger Tee, which contains valuable mineral salts from the famous Wildunger Bad in Germany. Unless the very first box brings grateful, comforting relief, your money back.

A New York doctor while traveling in Germany was so impressed with the results thousands were securing from this great kidney and bladder activator that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country. Many American doctors now prescribe it and report that its benefits are equally surprising here.

You can get Wildunger Tee on the distinct understanding that unless it helps, your money will be refunded to you. It may be had at

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Mormons—3. The Mormons Migrate To Utah

In the Autumn of 1846 several thousand Mormons assembled on the west bank of the Missouri near the mouth of the Platte, preparatory to seeking a new home for their faith in the far west. Here they spent the winter, living in covered wagons, tents and flimsy shacks . . . . .

Brigham Young.—

Brigham Young, a forceful, capable man, one of the "Twelve Apostles" of the Latter Day Saints, had become the leader of the Mormons after the death of the prophet Joseph Smith.

In the Spring of 1847 the Mormon band broke camp and moved west along the Platte. The Latter Day Saints likened their westward march to the Exodus of the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

Reaching the Rockies, the Mormons made their way through South Pass to Fort Bridger and thence down into the dry plains of Utah, where they settled near Great Salt Lake on what was then Mexican soil. 447

Universal Sanitary Wins First Half Title

COME FROM BEHIND TO TOP SCARAZZOS

Over 1,000 Fans See Exciting Contest Tuesday; Final Score Is 5-4

Shiek Stops Scarazzos In Final Innings; Jones' Single Decides Fray

After getting off to a bad start, the Universal Sanitary baseball team came back strong in the eighth and ninth innings to defeat the Scarazzos 5 to 4 Tuesday night on Universal Field. One thousand fans witnessed the exciting Lawrence county league.

By virtue of the victory the Universal Sanitary team, wins the coveted first half title of the Lawrence County League. Had the Scarazzos won, there would have been a four way tie for the title.

In the second inning the Scarazzos scored two runs to take an early lead. The Scarazzos scored on a triple by Paul Fahey in deep right, an error by Sumner, Universal first baseman and when Genock was hit by a pitched ball. Again in the fourth frame the Scarazzos fattened their lead with one more run.

After two men were gone, Fahey received a free ticket to first and scored a minute later when Carl Genock poled out a triple to right. Genock died on third when Rodenbaugh grounded out.

Score in Seventh

The final run for the Scarazzos came in the seventh. James and Orlando reached first on walks, Calieptri went out when Diffley snatched his foul tip. Byak came through with a timely double scoring James. The rally ended when Earl hit a long fly to left field.

For seven inning Robenbaugh had the Universal team eating out of his hand. Try as they would the Universals could not solve the offerings of "Rody" until the eighth inning. Culberston started the rally in the eighth by going to first on an error by Orlando at short.

Coates flied out to Byak in center. Mike Diffley pounded out a long triple to deep left center. Culbertson scored on the play, Diffley scored on Jones' high fly to center. Sumner tripled on the preceding play but the side was retired when McConahy hit out, Orlando to Fahey. The score stood, Scarazzos 4, Universals 2.

General Hits Home Run

The Scarazzos took the field in the ninth with two runs in the lead. Huston first up, struck out. Clem General made things a little more complicated for the Scarazzos when he hit one of Rodenbaugh's offerings, into deep left center. The hit was good for a home run.

Joe Diffley pinch hit for Shiek and landed safe when Genock threw wild to first. He stole second. Culbertson secured a base on ball. Coates was safe on a fielder's choice as J. Diffley ran home with the tying run. Culbertson was out on the play, Earl to Orlando. The game should have ended here with the Scarazos making a double play. Mike Diffley was walked intentionally.

It was up to "Bub" Jones to conclude the pyrotechnics. With two strikes on him, Jones hit a timely single into right field scoring Coates and winning the game and the first half championship of the Lawrence County league. The final score was Universal Sanitary 5: Scarazzos 4.

In the eighth and ninth innings, Wylie Shiek demonstrated real pitching ability. After three men filled the sacks, General yanked Vallely from the mound. There was only one man out. In a cool and deliberate manner Shiek fanned James and Orlando and retired the side which pulled his team out of a tight hole.

In the ninth inning the Scarazzos again filled the bases with no one out. Shiek again came through by fanning Grinnen, Fahey and Genock.

For the Universal team the playing of Shiek, Mike Diffley, General and Jones featured while Calipetri, Genock, Byak and Fahey were the best for the Scarazzos. These two teams battle again this evening at Centennial field in a second half contest.

Local Golfers Fail To Qualify At Pittsburgh

Make Good Showing Against Brilliant Field In Public Links Tourney

MOLESWORTH LEADS LOCAL ENTRANTS

Although the squad of golfers representing the New Castle Municipal course failed to qualify in the public links tournament staged in Pittsburgh, yesterday to determine the team which will represent the district in the national championships, they acquitted themselves creditably.

Playing on a strange course, which was more than familiar to the winners, they shot excellent golf, and placed well forward in the list of 63 contestants for the four places on the Pittsburgh team.

The winners, Carl Kaufmann, Pittsburgh public links champion, and national title holder from 1927 to 1929, and Carl Lundeen, both shot one under par with a 131 for the 36 holes, to outdistance the field. Harry Ramsey, former Kiski star who was third, shot 134, two over par, while John Pasikowski and Francis Lally from the Pittsburgh district tied for fourth place with 136, and will play off the tie today.

Molesworth Best

R. W. Molesworth turned in a brilliant 145, to stand sixteenth in the field, having a 72 and 73. Par on the Schenley course is 66. He was six over par in the morning round and seven over in the afternoon.

"Hackett" Kennedy who finished just half-way down the list was second among the New Castle entrants, with 154, having a 77 both morning and afternoon. Frank Sumners finished 39th on the list with 160, taking a 78 and 82. E. W. Pauls, William Twaddle, and Ollie West, finished 44, 45, and 46, in order with 172, 173, and 177.

There were some mighty good golfers entered in the event, and considering the conditions, the score of the New Castle boys was a very creditable one.

COON HUNTERS TO MEET ON THURSDAY

A meeting of the coon hunters of the district has been called for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Many open minds should be closed for repairs.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling will fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, according to announcement from New York today when Joe Jacobs and President William F. Carey of the Madison Square Garden corporation held a conference late yesterday. Schmeling will defend his title in September. The site has not yet been selected.

Arrangements for a boxing show one week from next Monday at the Castle bowl got under way last night Don Sheen was matched to fight Ollie Pollard and Kid Wright was rematched with Billy Grenzel. It is probable that Romeo Pacelli will appear on the card. Billy Mido and other local boys will be matched and within a few days the seven bouts will be announced.

Thirty thousand fans were turned away yesterday from the Chicago Cubs park where the Cardinals-Cubs series opened. One man fought his way to a grandstand seat and expired from heart disease. Fifteen others were overcome. Fifty thousand paid admission to see the series start. Evidently the Cubs did not feel any depression yesterday.

Emmett Rocco's eye is clearing up rapidly and it will not be long until he is back in action. Efforts are under way to have the big fellow box here but Joe Alexander, manager of Rocco has not yet given any answer to the proposal. Mickey Solomon, local middleweight, has been matched to fight Billy Brent at Pittsburgh, next week. Mickey is coming along in his comeback trip.

Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker have signed articles to meet in a 15 round bout this summer and it ought to produce plenty of action. As a fight it should be more satisfying than the Schmeling-Stribling contest proved. There are many who believe Sharkey the best heavyweight in the world and others believe that Walker will crawl all over the Lithuanian-American.

Mid-Atlantic Loop President Here

Elmer Dailey, president of the Mid-Atlantic league, was in New Castle last night in an effort to induce the entry of a local team in the league but nothing so far has come from his visit.

Sharkey Hopes To Defeat Walker

Battlers To Box In Two Weeks At Brooklyn New York

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Jack Sharkey envisions his 15-round bout with Mickey Walker in Brooklyn two weeks from today as a repetition of the fabled encounter between the cat and the mouse, with Sharkey playing the role of the cat.

The writer interviewed Sharkey last evening while the terrible sailor man was arguing with the proprietor of a haberdashery store over the price of a pair of suspenders—a circumstance that may have accounted for the Boston heavyweight's belligerent attitude.

"You can bet your last margin call that I could knock out Walker any time I please," confided Sharkey complacently. "But I won't try to put him away until after the tenth round, because I need the work."

With another championship match with Max Schmeling as his main objective, Sharkey is determined to leave no stone unturned in his campaign to secure a return bout with the German, to whom he lost on a foul 13 months ago.

"The only way I can get another shot at the title is to get everything out of the way as quickly as possible," he declared. "While I'm not taking Mickey lightly, I'd be a so-and-so if I said I couldn't lick a middleweight.

"Walker's only chance is to get in close, but he'll never do it. I'll hold him off with my left and make a nice whittling job of it—slow but sure. I'll outbox him the same way I outboxed Schmeling, only there will be no unfortunate foul this time."

With a characteristic right-about-face, the tar then declared he expected Walker would put up a tough fight.

"No matter how small they are all these little guys can hit," he said. "If they get fooling around with you they are likely to bust you right on the chin. Harry Greb, in his day, could take any heavyweight and wind him around his finger, and Walker gave Greb his hardest fights. But when Mickey meets me, he'll realize he's got somebody he can't fool around with."

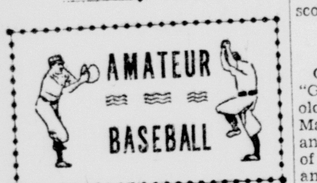
Sharkey will put in ten days of intensive training for Walker at Pompton Lakes, N. J. He inspected the camp yesterday and was highly pleased with it. There is both an outdoor and an indoor ring.

Jack will train right up until the day before the fight.

"I haven't fought in 13 months and need all the boxing I can get," he pointed out. "However, since March 18 I've boxed 100 rounds at my gymnasium in Boston, what with preparing for Carnera and all."

Sharkey was to leave today for Boston where he will second Ernie Schaaf, his protege, against Jimmy Maloney on Friday night.

"The minute that punk Maloney sees me in the other corner he's licked," chuckled the tar. 'So I won't be able to start training for Walker until Saturday."



Lutton Street Sluggers defeated the Polidoro Midgets 10-9 in a game played on Tuesday afternoon on Franklin Field. J. Mash with a pair of homers featured for the losers while F. Copple and P. Turco were the best for the winners.

OSNABRUECK, Germany — The "Gymnasium Carolinum", Germany's oldest school, founded by Charlemagne, has just celebrated its 1,125th anniversary. It was given the status of a university in 1630 by imperial and papal decree, but when the Swedes took Osnabrueck three years later they drove out the Jesuits, who had charge of the institution, and it again became a high school.

Cubs Beat Cards In Double Bill

Philadelphia Athletics Fatten Lead By Tripping Washington, 7-3

WHITE SOX AGAIN TOP ST. LOUIS, 10-8

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 8.—Anything can happen in baseball and it did.

The Chicago Cubs beat up the St. Louis Cardinals twice on Tuesday, advancing over Brooklyn to third place in the National league. The Bruins are now only half a game back of the second place Giants, who are trailing the Cards by three games. Brooklyn is only a couple of points behind the Chicagoans.

Charlie Root had one of his better days in the opener and so did some of the Cub hitters, resulting in a debacle, Chicago 14, St. Louis 2.

The vesper affair was one of those things supposed to be seen in movies and read in novels. In the eighth inning the bases were loaded and Dan Taylor went in to pinch hit. Hero Dan up and socked the ball to left field for a double, scoring three runs. The neat trick won for the Hornsby crew, 6 to 3, with English making a single to score Taylor.

Philadelphia ignored the presence of President Hoover and flopped the Washington Senators 7 to 3, moving five and a half games ahead in the American league grind. Earnshaw was tapped for only eight scattered hits. Cochrane and Simmons poked triples for the Athletics.

Babe Phelps just couldn't go the distance but he handed old Jack Quinn a four-run lead in the ninth and the Robins flipped the Phillies, 5 to 1. Brickell, Phillies' center fielder, was kayoed at third when he slid into Gilbert's knee. They declared him out, as well as unconscious, when Manager Shotten rushed out and dragged him to the base.

Simmons singled in the twelfth inning to score Watwood and Blue for a 10 to 3 victory for the Chicago Sox over St. Louis.

Emery and Joseph N. Emery, died seized of state.

That two unsatisfied mortgages upon the said premises remain of record in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Lawrence County, first mortgage dated April 17, 1880, given by Oliver M. Emery and Joseph N. Emery to David Emery, in the sum of $145.00, and recorded in Mortgage Book Vol. 7, Page 382; second mortgage dated April 17, 1880, given by Oliver M. Emery and Joseph N. NEW YORK STOCKS

Market As Whole Is Dull And Quiet

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Though most of the active stocks settled down to slightly lower prices this morning, the market as a whole was dull and quiet after the first half-hour and the wave of selling which upset yesterday's session appeared to have passed over, for the time being. The bears were not inclined to follow up the advantage gained by them in Tuesday's reactionary market and a better demand for stocks was reported in bargain-hunting quarters.

As expected, the Steel industry's mid-week survey showed a further contraction of output to 33 per cent of mill capacity. This is a loss of 2 percent since last week and of 5½ percent in two weeks. Leaders of the industry were not discouraged over this swing believing that the bottom has been reached and anticipating a slow but sure recovery. U. S. Steel settled down about a point to 97¾, but rallied to above 98 in the second hour. Bethlehem, Crucible and Vanadium recovered their early fractional losses.

Sluggish trading was characteristic of all the important world markets, and in Paris and Berlin stocks strengthened as the day advanced. American Utility and Railroad stocks held steady, the latter being helped by the further progress in eastern rail consolidation plans as worked out in yesterday's commerce of the transportation leaders. New York Central, Pennsylvania and other well known dividend Rails were in good demand. Specialties improved in the second hour, with United Aircraft and J. I. Case the favorites. Woolworth dropped off a point on announcement that only the regular dividend had been declared.

Commodities were fairly steady, with Cotton down about 7 points and Copper inclined fractionally lower. Money rates were unchanged.

Before and After

These two graphic pictures, the top one taken just before Wiley Post and Harold Gatty hopped off from Roosevelt Field for their epochal 'round-the-world flight, and the lower one snapped a moment after they had wearily climbed out of the Winnie Mae upon their return to the same field, show the fatigue under which the famous airmen were suffering after their 8-day-15-hour-51-minute flight. It was raining when the intrepid pair took off, as their rain-spattered coats indicate, but it was hot from milling thousands and booming flashlights as they returned. Post is shown at left.

TO ATTEMPT REFUELING TOKYO HOP

With the aid of re-fueling ships, Reginald Robbins, left, above, and H. S. Jones, right, co-pilot and navigator of the Fort Worth, below, hope to make a non-stop flight from Seattle to Tokyo. Following their arrival in Seattle they have been arranging to have refueling ships ready at Fairbanks and Nome, Alaska.

SHERIDAN, Wyo.—Out here in the great open spaces, where men are men and dudes wear ten-gallon hats, awnings in front of stores must be six and a half feet above the sidewalk to provide room for high-heeled cowboys with tall sombreros. Complaints from ranches, both of the dude and cattle variety, that low-hanging awnings were knocking their hats off, brought about the ruling.

TRUELOVE BLAMES NAME

(International News Service)

DETROIT—Held in county jail in default of $1,000 bond ordered posted when he pleaded not guilty to charges of abandoning his wife and child, the alleged deserter blamed his troubles on his name, John J. Truelove. His wife, Mrs. Vervin Truelove, charged that he abandoned her and their child.

HE TWIGGED AT LAST

There was a dear little baby on the train, and an old gentleman opposite said, "A fine child, madam, I trust he will grow up an upright and honorable man."

"I'm afraid," smiled the mother, "that it's going to be rather difficult.'

"As the twig is bent, so the tree's inclined," murmured the old gentleman pompously.

"But the trouble is," said the mother, "the twig is bent on being a girl,"

U. S. Aviation Experts Loud In Their Praise Of Post-Gatty Flight

Mechanical Improvement And Advances In Airmanship In Past Few Years Shown By Globe Conquest, Says Expert

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 8.—For the marvelous precision of her recent performance, hop after hop around the world, Uncle Sam's aviation experts, civil and military alike, agree that it would be most ungrateful to deny the monoplane Winnie Mae her full share of the credit. That mechanical improvement has made the plane a much more dependable means of transportation than it was when the army flyers circled the globe in 1924 government aviators are unanimous.

Nevertheless, one catches here and there the suggestion that airmanship has made advances also; that Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who steered the Winnie Mae on her record-breaking voyage, evidently know things about plane management that pilots of a few years ago only guessed at—if that, even.

"In respect to motor equipment," says Chief Frederick R. Neely of the commerce department's aeronautic information division, "the aviator of today is at almost a 100 per cent advantage over his predecessors of 1924. The aviator of the earlier period, however, did possess instruments, to guide him in blind flying, which he had not learned to utilize as they now are utilized."

"As we all are aware," continued the commercial flying official, "it is the tendency of practically everyone to travel in a circle, lacking landmarks to aid him in retaining his sense of direction.

"It is true of walking, riding, swimming. Equally is it true of flight.

"This circle grows tighter and tighter—even inward. There is little doubt that many an aviator has circled thus to his death at sea—steering 'round and 'round until his engine failed him, though, flying straightaway, it would have carried him to safety.

"Such tragedies unquestionably continued long after instruments were available to prevent them, for the simple reason that few flyers, despite the fact that they had the instruments, understood them.

"Fully mastered, a flight like the Winnie Mae's, from point to point with the accuracy of a railroad train, proves their reliability."

"So much for the value of scientific human training.

"The Winnie Mae's design and the superiority of her engine to 1924's best model," said Chief Neely, "are counts to be set down to the monoplane's credit.

"Just a single plane! Not a strut to meet air resistance! To all intents and purposes, a racer! Had she been equipped to retract her landing gear she might be considered as having cut down her impedimenta to an irreducible minimum.

"The army fliers plugged along at an average rate around 70 miles an hour. The Winnie Mae, with a far lighter but more powerful engine averaged rather more than twice that fast. Of the planes which completed the army flight each had undergone important replacements before it finished the voyage. The Winnie Mae came through with no repairs whatever of serious consequence.

"Oh, aviation has made immense strides since 1924."

Has the Winnie Mea's triumph robbed the lighter-than-air machine of any part of its glory?

"I'd hardly say that," answered Chief Neely.

"The plane is faster, but we must remember that the Graf Zeppelin carried a pay load around the world. A plane couldn't do that; anyway not at present. As a commercial proposition, for long oversea flights, I think we must award the advantage to the dirigible as yet. For speed of course the prize goes to the heavier-than-air craft."

It may seem ungracious to say so, but the Winnie Mae's voyage was not, in any proper sense, around the world. It looks so on a flat map but not on a globe. On a globe, obviously it merely was a flight in a circle about 3,000 miles in diameter—not 8,000 miles, which approximately is the earth's diameter at the equator.

Is a real around-the-world flight a possibility?

"Around the maximum circumference?" queried Chief Neely.

"That would depend on fueling facilities.

The navy might provide them, by stationing ships at intervals along the vast ocean stretches. Such a plan has been discussed by individual naval officers. It never has taken definite shape, however."

THE CHANGE

She was the ray of sunshine
That brightened up his life,
That dazzled till he asked her
To be his sunny wife.

So with his ray of sunshine
He said the marriage vow,
But, oh, these quick divorces!
She's just his ex-ray now.—Life.

SOCIETY RUMORS THEIR BETROTHAL

Fliers Greeted by Hoover

The visit of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, intrepid crew of the plane "Winnie Mae," to Washington, D. C., was marked by scenes of the warmest enthusiasm. After a parade along Pennsylvania Avenue, the fliers were entertained at a reception and banquet at the White House, where they heard President Hoover laud their wonderful flight. Photo shows the record-smashing pair with the President in the rose garden of the Executive Mansion.

Superior Court Hands Down Decrees In Four Cases Taken Up From Lawrence County

Decisions on four appeals from Lawrence county were handed down by the Superior court at Philadelphia today. The cases were as follows:

Jennie Nesbit against David Nesbit. This was an appeal from the Workmen's Compensation award. Before Judge Hildebrand a verdict of $2,687.50 was obtained against the Commercial Casualty Company. This was sustained by the Superior court.

In the B. L. Dick estate growing out of a controversy over an appraisement and widow's exemption, Judge Hildebrand's decision is sustained.

In the case of Emma Galich against Mark Kostra, in which a verdict for $500 was obtained by plaintiff in a trespass suit, an application for a new trial which was refused by Judge Hildebrand, is sustained.

In the Olive Aiken estate, Judge James A. Chambers is sustained in an opinion growing out of a claim of Margaret Jackson.

500 New York Reds March Until Weary

NEW YORK, July 8.—The shouts and shuffles of 500 Communists were heard in City Hall park Tuesday afternoon in an unemployment demonstration, but 150 policemen let the demonstrators march and cheer until, tired and hoarse, they quit of their own accord.

The Communists, for the most part, appeared well fed, nearly all were good clothing and the scene was quiet in contrast with the several violent meetings of the past there and in Union Square.

The demonstrators marched as an escort to a committee which presented a letter to the board of aldermen asking continuance of relief for the destitute through police channels, a fund to tide over unemployed and stoppage of all evictions of those distressed through unemployment.

Execution Stay Granted To Ralls Brothers In Ohio

(International News Service)

LIMA, O., July 8.—The third district court of appeals announced here today it had granted an indefinite stay of execution in the cases of Walter and Blanton Ralls of Crestline, sentenced to die in the electric chair July 23 for the slaying of Sheriff George Davenport of Crawford county.

The stay was granted after the court took under advisement an appeal for new trials.

Sheriff Davenport was shot and killed last January when he attempted to arrest the Ralls brothers for stealing chickens. A third man, Elijah Ralls, was killed by an officer when he tried to escape.

An appeal for new trials twice was denied by the common pleas court. Attorney for Walter and Blanton listed numerous errors and claimed the juries in the first trials were prejudiced as a result of threatened violence against the men after their arrest.

William Morris, the poet, was the inventer of the Morris chair.
